Congress Waits Roosevelt's Message

ZERO WAVE TO CONTINUE FOR 2 MORE DAYS

Weatherman Sees Little Hope of Relief Until Thursday; 4 Above Is Low Mark.

MORE SNOW FORECAST

Cold General Over Mid-West, Gives Florida and Texas Freezing Weather.

Bitter cold, which ushered in the New Year, continued to grip the Mansfield area and a big part of the nation today, and the weatherman said there was little hope for relief before Thursday.

The mercury dropped to seven above zero in Mansfield today, marking the third consecutive day in which the temperature has been close to the zero mark. It was 11 above at noon, only a four-degree rise since morning.

The average temperature for the past 72 hours was 11.1 degrees as compared with the normal 30 degrees for this date.

Snow flurries were predicted for today with fair and continued cold tomorrow. It will be slightly warmer Thursday, the forecast said.

Yesterday's low was four degrees above zero, the same as Sunday's reading.

24 Below is Coldest.

The cold, general over the middle west and east, dipped into Florida and Texas where temperatures were down to freezing. The nation's cold spot was Bismarck, N. D., with a reading of 24 below zero.

All of Ohio shivered in the frigid weather. It was three above zero this morning in Cincinnati, the city's coldest day since Feb. 20, 1936. Cleveland, with a reading of 14 above, had two inches of snow and state patrolmen warned of hazardous driving conditions in northern and northeastern Ohio.

In Mansfield, city street employes have been busy since Sunday spreading salt and cinders over the icy streets. City water department workers were repairing a break in a service line today at Bowman street and Temple court which resulted from the cold weather.

Train and air travel was delayed at Cleveland because of the snow. At Wheeling, W. Va., the Ohio river was frozen over for the first time since 1935 and all river traffic was suspended.

County Engineer Howard C Sword said a crew of county road employes worked Sunday and Monday to clear county roads of drifts and spread cinders on hills and curves. All roads are open and in fair condition, he said.

Only death reported in Ohio from the cold was that of an unidentified man whose body was found in a vacant lot along the Ohio river at Cincinnati.

Baby, Born 6 Hours After Arrival Of 1940, Leads Derby

Unless some "dark horse" contender appears within the next few hours to claim the prizes offered in the annual New Year Stork handicap, the prizes will go to the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Stoops, of 37 Rowland avenue, who arrived at the home of her parents at 6:12 a. m. Monday.

The nearest contender was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kellogg, 182½ Newman street, who arrived at General hospital at 9:09 a. m. Monday.

Never in the race because its parents weren't Mansfield residents was a son born at General hospital at 8:04 a. m. Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wiener of Galion.

A check with the hospital and Visiting Nurses brought forth a list of New Year babies, but the Stoops baby arrived first and unless some as yet unreported contender bobs up within the next 24 hours the gifts offered by Mansfield merchants will be awarded to her and her parents tomorrow.

Other New Year day babies were a son to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Grunisen, 55 Douglas avenue; daughter to Mr. and Mrs Ben Gilbert, 156 Harter; and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Lester Garber, R. D. 6, all born at General hospital Monday afternoon and evening.

MEXICO CITY — (INS) — The whole village of Mazarene in the state of Oaxaca cheered today for 28-year-old Senora Jovita Prez, who became the mother of quadruplets—two daughters and two sons—on New Year day. She was attended by Dr. Manuel Canseco Landero.

Ashbrook Dies on Eve Of Return to Capital

Stroke Fatal to Veteran Congressman at Home In Johnstown; Was 72.

On the eve of his departure for Washington to take his seat in congress, William A. Ashbrook, 72, congressman from the 17th Ohio district, died at his home near Johnstown last evening, following a stroke suffered Sunday evening.

The veteran politician, known as the "soldiers' friend" and "Pension Bill" because of his work in behalf of war veterans and their families, had planned to leave his farm near Johnstown today with Mrs. Ashbrook for the nation's capital

WILLIAM A. ASHBROOK

His death leaves Ohio with two vacant seats in congress, as that of the late Chester A. Bolton, of the 22nd district, has not yet been filled. It was not known today whether Gov. John W. Bricker would call a special election to select successors to serve out the unexpired terms or wait until the May primary.

Mr. Ashbrook was believed to have recovered from a slight stroke suffered during the last session of congress while participating in the arms embargo fight.

BRICKER TO ACT ON VACANCIES

Indicates Governor Will Call Special Congressional Elections.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Don Power, secretary to Governor Bricker, indicated today that the chief executive probably would designate a special election soon to fill two congressional seats left vacant by recent deaths.

The election would be called to complete the unexpired terms of the late Congressman Chester C. Bolton, of Cleveland, in the 22nd district, and the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook, of Johnstown, in the 17th district.

The governor said recently that he might call a special election to fill Bolton's seat at the May primary. A special primary would have to be held at least 25 days prior to the election.

U. S. PROTESTS

Note Criticizes Seizure of Mail Destined to Germany.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States formally protested to the British government today against Britain's seizure of mail from the United States destined to Germany.

This government, a note to Britain said, "cannot admit the right of the British authorities to interfere with American mails on American or other neutral ships on the high seas nor can it admit the right of the British government to censor mail on ships which have involuntarily entered British ports."

The state department cited four specific cases of British authorities taking around 1,250 sacks of mail and parcel post from American or neutral ships.

HULL DISCLAIMS POLITICAL AIMS

Denies Personal Ambitions To Run For Presidency.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary Hull disclaimed today personal ambitions for the presidency.

At his press conference, he said that he knew nothing of reports that President Roosevelt had chosen him as his successor.

He added immediately that he had made all the comments that could be made on this subject, six to 12 months ago, when in writing to various persons, he stated that he had no personal purposes, in any sense, of a political nature.

JENKINS OUSTER BATTLE BREWS

Sherwood Prepares to File Charges Today Against Prison Farm Head.

A heated battle before the Ohio Civil Service commission loomed today as Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood prepared to file removal charges against T. C. Jenkins, suspended superintendent of the London prison farm.

Jenkins, former superintendent of the Mansfield reformatory, previously said he would fight for his job. Sherwood was expected to file charges today or Wednesday since Jenkins' 30-day disciplinary suspension period ends Thursday.

The charges will deal with the large number of escapes from the prison farm in March last year, alleged drug and liquor traffic at the institution and possibly accusations of a more sensational nature, an International News Service dispatch said today.

W. F. Amrine, state superintendent of corrections, has been in charge of the prison farm since Jenkins was given a three-month leave of absence four months ago.

Jenkins, who received $4,500 a year, has been employed by state penal and correctional institutions for the past 34 years. He had been in charge of the prison farm since March 1, 1935.

WIN FIRST BABY TITLE 2ND YEAR

Allen County Couple Claim Prizes For Second Consecutive Year.

LIMA, O.—(INS)—The first Allen county baby of the new year apparently was born to Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hennon for the second consecutive year.

A daughter born to them half a minute after midnight Jan. 1, 1939, won for the Hennons prizes offered by Lima merchants.

Twelve minutes after the arrival of the new year yesterday a son was born to the same family. So far as could be learned in a preliminary check, it was the county's first 1940 birth.

EVELYN NESBIT ILL

NEW YORK—(INS)—Evelyn Nesbit, once the wife of Harry K. Thaw, the former Pittsburgh playboy, was reported seriously ill in a New York hospital today awaiting an operation tomorrow. She is now in her 50's.

365 Lives Lost As Nation Celebrates, Only 2 Hurt Here

The grim reaper—violent death—took 365 lives in the nation over the New Year holiday, including 17 in Ohio.

This was a sizeable reduction in Christmas toll which snuffed out more than 500 human lives. Last New Year approximately 160 met violent deaths.

Although the Mansfield area escaped without a fatality, automobile crashes were numerous with two persons reported injured, neither seriously.

Automobile crashes, train accidents, fires, suicides and drownings swelled the nation-wide toll.

Reports revealed 128 of the lives were claimed in automobile accidents with California leading the death parade with 37. Illinois and Pennsylvania each reported 25 deaths.

Six states listed no violent deaths. They were Idaho, Mississippi, North Dakota, Nevada, Vermont and Rhode Island.

Seventeen persons died by fire, 40 by suicide, 28 by homicide and 92 from various other causes, the Associated Press said.

In Ohio's week-end deaths, 10 of the 17 were marked up to traffic. Other deaths were three suicides, a drowning, a shooting, burns and a mine accident.

BITTER FIGHTS LOOMING FOR NEW SESSION

G. O. P. Indicates President's Call for Political Holiday Will Set Off Battle.

DEMS HOPE FOR HARMONY

Presidential Message to Be Given Both Chambers at Joint Session Tomorrow.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today conferred with congressional leaders and personal advisers on plans for opening of the third session of the 76th congress—a session loaded with political dynamite—at high noon tomorrow.

The president, it was reported in congressional quarters, will devote much of his annual message to congress on the international situation and will call for national unity in solving problems arising in a war-torn world.

Republican leaders anxiously awaited the message, which the president will deliver in person at a joint session of senate and house, to see whether he actually proposes an adjournment of partisanship. The Republican leaders make it plain that they will reject any such plea.

A brief legislative program is expected to be submitted by the president. Special messages with detailed recommendations may follow within the next few weeks.

While Democratic leaders hope for a harmonious session, Republican leaders predict many bitter battles. Presidential politics is certain to dominate many actions of the congress, with a possibility that events of the session may determine the presidential nominees of the two major parties.

Outstanding questions faced by the session include:

1. The budget. Disclosure that

Neither Winters' mother nor Detective Chief William Reed knew why Winters was in the hospital or why he was in Baltimore.

OHIO BLACKOUT

Street Lights In Mason Darkened Because of Lack of Funds.

MASON, O.—(AP)—The holidays are over and this Warren county village returns to a "blackout" tonight.

Lack of lighting funds made necessary the turning off of street lights from Nov. 18 to Dec. 16. Then, as an aid to Christmas shoppers, they were turned on.

A special levy to finance the illumination will be voted on Jan 16.

As New Mayor And Chief Aid Confer

Mayor William J. Locke, right, is shown conferring with his chief aid, C. M. Crafton, who will be service-safety director in Locke's administration. Crafton officially takes over his duties next Monday, succeeding Earl A. Nist. Locke became mayor yesterday.

Job Seekers Crowd City Building, Keep Locke Busy!

Applicants Jam Outer Office as Mayor Goes to Work on Second Day; Appoints Sidewalk Inspector.

Following "open house" festivities at city hall yesterday during which he was greeted by well wishers and party leaders in his flower-decked office, Mayor William J. Locke today set about the task of seeing job hunters who besieged the municipal building this morning.

Arriving at city hall shortly after 8 a. m. today, the new mayor was greeted by applicants for work who crowded into his outer office.

The crowd, however, was smaller than in past years, partly because of improved industrial conditions and because the administration this year has few jobs to pass out. Practically all but a mere handful of positions are under civil service.

Reached by telephone shortly before noon, Locke said he had done little other than see prospective job seekers during the morning.

He added that there were "no promises" being made and that the applicants were told to see the executive committee for recommendations.

He did, however, make one announcement, that Lloyd Kochenderfer, 17 Highland avenue, recommended last week by the executive committee, has been appointed sidewalk inspector. His duties will not begin until late spring.

Locke said he intended to call department heads together with Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton the latter part of the week for a meeting at which he will outline the administration's policies.

Reporting for his first day at work shortly after 9 a. m. yesterday—New Year day—Locke was greeted by Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, who with other department heads do not relinquish their positions until Jan. 8.

Shortly thereafter flowers began to arrive. There were greetings to the new Republican administration from Holibaugh and Wolfe Insurance agency, Simon Small and Sons, Kallmerten and Baer company, both building supply dealers; Stuhldreher Floral company, and Kafer's flowers, the First M. E. church, and Henry and John Pierce.

CADDELL QUITS AS SECRETARY

Mansfielder Resigns Job on Ohio Industrial Commission at Meeting Today.

Albert D. Caddell of Mansfield, resigned today as secretary of the Ohio industrial commission. No reason was given for his resignation but associates of Gov. John W. Bricker said Caddell had been asked to resign.

An Associated Press dispatch from Columbus said Caddell's resignation was offered at a committee reorganization meeting at which James A. White of Columbus, appointed last week by Gov. Bricker, took office. He succeeds John W. Beall of Lima.

Caddell declined to comment on his resignation, the Associated Press said. Board members were also silent concerning a successor. Caddell had been secretary since 1934 and his resignation becomes effective Jan. 15.

Caddell, although listed as a Republican, served through Democratic administrations. The position paid him $4,600 a year.

Caddell served at the pleasure of the commission and not for any stated period.

Before leaving Mansfield to take over the state post, Caddell was secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here. He also formerly was secretary of the Manufacturers club.

Dispatches from Columbus quoted Caddell as saying he had no plans for the immediate future.

At the commission's reorganization meeting today, Will T. Blake, of East Liverpool, was elected chairman.

FIRST SESSION

Council Reorganizes Tonight at Initial 1940 Meeting.

City council holds its first 1940 session tonight and there was every indication it would be a short one.

Only several minor pieces of legislation were in the hopper today, but before these come up for discussion, council will reorganize for the coming two years, with President Howard G. Miller announcing committee chairmen and personnel.

Democrats will hold a 6 to 3 majority in the new council. Their edge in the past two years was 5 to 4.

The only new member of council is Jacob Kutchall, Democrat, of the Fourth Ward, who will replace Lester D. Hunter. Philip Smith, Democrat, replaces James E. Crum, retiring Republican councilman-at-large.

Check of Business, Industry Launches 1940 Census Taking

The 1940 census got underway today with four enumerators in Richland county and more than 12,000 in the nation beginning their check of business and industrial plants, drainage and irrigation units and mines and quarries.

Three other census, covering population, housing units and agriculture, will start April 1 when approximately 118,000 more enumerators will be added to the national force to make house-to-house calls.

Richland county business and industrial enumerators are Spires A. Breres, 164 West Fourth street; Todd J. Patton, 37 Arlington avenue; David L. C. Buchanan, 307 North Main street, and Gail Haun of Shelby. They will work under the direction of Don H. Harper, Mt. Vernon, 17th district supervisor, and A. W. Strater, Mansfield, assistant supervisor.

The business and industrial enumerators will gather facts about payrolls, business volume, expenditures for plant improvements and additions, seasonal and annual employment, raw materials and inventories. The work is expected to require five months.

Enumerators are expected to cover approximately 3,000,000 business firms, 170,000 manufacturing plants and 12,000 mines and quarries. Only those drainage and irrigation projects which are operated separately from farming will be included in the present census. The others will be included in the agricultural census.

By April 1 when the force of enumerators will be swelled to 13,000, they will seek detailed information concerning the more than 130,000,000 inhabitants of the United States in 143,000 districts specially set up for the task.

RUSSIANS CUT OFF BY TIMELY ARCTIC ATTACK

Finnish Troops Tighten Up on 'Squeeze,' Shoot Foes Attempting to Flee.

MAKE NEW ADVANCES

Reports Indicate Defenders Penetrate Soviet Lines at Several Points.

BULLETIN

HELSINKI —(AP)— Capture of a Russian army base and the smashing of an all-day tank-supported Red army attack at two points on the eastern front were reported today by the Finnish army communique.

(By United Press)

COPENHAGEN, Denmark —Sixteen thousand Russian troops have been cut off by the Finns on the Salla front near the Arctic circle in a battle which bids fair to equal if not exceed in importance the Finnish New Year victory on the Suomussalmi front to the south, press dispatches said today.

Finns in a carefully calculated and well-timed attack moved in on the Russians from the front and both flanks, forced the collapse of their right and left wings on to their center, and succeeded in cutting off their communications in the rear, it was asserted.

Sixteen thousand Russians would constitute nearly an entire division, which numbers usually about 18,000 men—the number defeated in the battle of Kiantajarvi on the Suomussalmi front when the Russian 163rd division was destroyed.

In their new attack, dispatches said, the Finns were tightening their squeeze of the Russians, making it impossible for them to flee and shooting such of the Russian troops as sought to make a break back toward the frontier.

Dispatches asserted that the

3 SHIPS SUNK

British Lose Two, Norway One in Week-End Sea War.

LONDON — (U.P.) — Three ships including the 1,400-ton Norwegian steamer Luna, reportedly torpedoed without warning, were listed today as victims of sea warfare during the New Year week-end.

The other two were British —the 8,072-ton tanker San Delfino, mined and beached on the east coast without casualties among the crew of 41, and the 5,677-ton freighter Boxhill, sunk by an explosion in the North sea Sunday with a loss of 19 of the crew of 32.

The loss of the Luna was reported at Kopervik, Norway, where the Norwegian ship Columbia landed all 17 of the Luna crew. The ship was 25 miles off the Norwegian coast, headed for its home port of Bergen, when it was sunk.

If clothing is hung up carefully, you will save a lot of pressing. Select your hangers with care. For most garments, the usual wire holder is satisfactory, but thin, dainty garments need wider hangers, covered with felt or velveteen to prevent tearing. To keep sheer clothes from slipping off, stick thumb tacks two inches from each end of a wooden or covered hanger. Often "best" dresses should be hung by straps attached to the waist band or the shoulders. Fasten the straps to covered hangers with small pins. Give each garment plenty of closet space and look in often to see that none falls down.

NOT IN ICE BOX

Always store wine in a uniformly cool place — not the refrigerator. Fill wine glasses two-thirds full when serving it.

Try this for an informal winter dessert: Cover freshly made hot waffles with crushed pineapple, mixed with finely sliced bananas. Top with a hot orange-pineapple sauce. Serve it with plenty of hot coffee after a fish or fruit salad served for the club luncheon or bridge foursome.

News-Journal Page For Women

Came In Working Clothes

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It seems queer in this age of porcelain tubs, unlimited water and inexpensive soap that anyone should be indifferent to these blessings, and attempt to be popular without taking advantage of them.

A young man, employed in a good but messy job, at the end of his working day dashed off to see his Heart's Desire without taking time to tub or change. When he arrived at the girl's house, her older sister was entertaining a very snooty young man actually wearing a dinner jacket. It seems they were going out to dance.

The younger sister nearly passed away with mortification when her greasy and unkempt swain entered the living-room. As he writes me: "She tried to pretend I was not a friend at all, had just come there on business, and she kept raising her eyebrows shaking her head, and giving other signals for me to fall in with her little plan.

"It hurt me good and plenty, Miss Fairfax, and I'm writing to you because I read something in your column the other day telling a girl not to be foolish and turn down a fellow because he didn't hold a white-collar job. And I believe you will see my side of the case.

"She wrote me a blistering letter and told me not to call on her again if I didn't 'come clean.' The IF sort of leaves door open. She means me to understand not to see her anymore if I don't change my working clothes before I go to her house.

"Now, of course, I could write her a sassy letter and tell her that it is all the same to me whether I come or not. But I'd be lying, because I love her lots and lots. What's your idea about this? Was it so shocking to go to call directly from my work?"

INQUIRING.

Doubtless if the snooty young man in the dinner jacket had not been present, your girl would not have made so much of your coming to see her as you did.

And it was silly of her to try and palm you off as someone who was not a friend. Making due allowance for a lover's impatience not to lose a moment in seeing his Beloved, it's never wise for him to present himself "as is," when his job is good but dirty.

If there is anything terribly important he has to communicate, it would be better to phone and say: "I'm coming directly from the garage, or the factory" (or wherever it is he's employed) "and I haven't got time to doll up." This would, of course, give the girl a chance to break the news to dinner-jacketed callers that her friend was coming directly from his work.

Personally, if I had been the young lady, I wouldn't have cared a cent about receiving a friend in his working clothes. But then, snobbishness to me seems silly. And if the girl does break with you on account of coming to her house in your working clothes, I really don't think you need break your heart over this loss.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I am afraid I stared rather blankly at Queen Olga for an instant after her question.

"I did not know," I said slowly, "how much you knew about Mr. Veritzen's feeling about his origin."

"But I know everything," she said, widening her eyes in surprise. "He kept no secret from me in the old days, poor Phil! I was the only one then to whom he ever told his tragic story. I think that you and Lillian are the only ones to whom he has told it on this side of the ocean. But I am sure you will agree with me that it was enough to warp his whole viewpoint on life."

"I have realized that clearly," I said, "since he told me his story when he asked me to arrange for him an interview with you. I think I came nearer to understanding him then than I ever have. I even felt a lessening of the bitterness that has been mine against him during the years of his persecution of our niece, for really that is the only name to give to some of his actions."

"I know," she said, "although he never has mentioned Mary's name to me except in terms of admiring affection. But I have sensed that his words were not exactly sincere, and I am as deeply concerned over his attitude as you are, because, to my great sorrow, my own daughter's folly, I am afraid, is partly responsible for Philip's feeling that it might be possible to change the present state of things."

She waited for a long second, and thn spoke again.

"That is why I asked you to come to me, my dear Madge," she said. "I want counsel as to what is best to do. I confess I do not understand my daughter. She always has been wilful, but her instincts invariably have been sound. This willingness to hurt another woman puzzles and distresses me."

If I had uttered the truth, I would have told her that the emotions she was voicing were mild compared to those I felt toward her daughter. But, instead, I said only the conventional thing.

"I am sure she does not realize that she is hurting Mary," I said, and then, for the sake of something to say, I added sententiously:

"Youth never realizes how it can hurt. It takes maturity to know what pain it can inflict."

Queen Olga nodded.

"That is very true," she said, "and it is very kind of you to come to my daughter's defense. But whether her conduct is the result of youthful thoughtlessness, or of something more culpable, the fact remains that your niece's happiness is being endangered—and my daughter's also. I am old-fashioned enough to believe that a woman who wilfully or thoughtlessly ruins another woman's life, will be severely punished sooner or later. Don't you agree with me?"

"Yes, I do," I said honestly.

"Then,"—she spread her beautiful hands in an expressive gesture—"what is to be done? I have tried to control my daughter, but find it difficult when Philip is working with her."

I controlled my astonishment with difficulty.

"What makes you think that?" I asked.

"Many things," she answered, "but most concretely the fact that she telephoned him at a most unseemly hour this morning, something which I think you know already."

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Jan. 3.

Judging by the influence of the dominant planets, this may be a day of great agitation, turmoil and drastic action, probably directed toward the breaking up of old stagnations or the removal of tenacious obstacles. Much strenuous energy may be brought to bear on frustrating circumstances, in which intrigue or treachery may have a strong part.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a rather strenuous and confusing year; with much aggressive action brought to bear on static and difficult situations. It will be necessary to probe deep in order to get at the root of frustrating circumstances, fraught with duplicity and intrigue. Tact, even stratagem or compromise, accompanied by quick action and a grasp of tricky situations, may lead to a modicum of success in removing impediments and clearing the way for future constructive programs.

A child born on this day, although impetuous and high strung, with much desire for strenuous action, at the same time may be deep, critical, melancholy and easily discouraged

A dash of chili sauce gives pep to lamb, pork or veal gravy for chops, meat loaf or roasts. A teaspoon is enough for about 1½ cups of gravy.

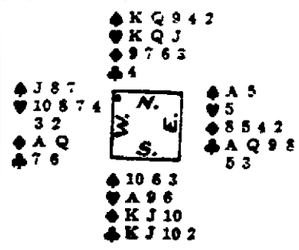
KNOW YOUR SIGNALS

You may be the best defensive player in the world in other respects, but if you are not efficient in the giving and reading of signals you will have to rate yourself as no better than mediocre. Fine work against the declarer depends upon teamwork between the defenders, who cannot see each other's hands and therefore have to "talk across the table" by the legitimate means of selecting their plays carefully.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

East opened this deal with 1-Club, West bid 1-Heart, North 1-Spade, East 2-Clubs, West 2-Hearts, North 2-Spades and South 3-Spades, which all passed. South was afraid to try No Trump, with his single stopper in West's rebid hearts.

Answering his partner's bid, East led the heart 5, won by the A. On it West played the heart 8. He could read his partner's lead as a singleton, and his high card was meant to ask East to shift to the higher-ranking of the other side suits, diamonds ranking higher than clubs.

Had East, after winning with the trump ace, then led a diamond, West would have won and led back a heart for a ruff. One more trick each then in diamonds and clubs would have set the contract.

East, however, didn't know that signal. He thought West's high heart asked for a repeat of the suit, which he couldn't give, having a singleton. So he selected the club A and another club, hoping West could ruff. Thus declarer made his contract.

Beauty Marches Ahead

By MME. QUI VIVE

What's become of the granite-faced old diehards who flung up their arms at the sight of a lipstick and went into a collapse if anybody so much as mentioned a facelift? I'll tell you. They've reformed. They're battling their way through crowds around cosmetic counters, they're getting their hair tinted, spending plenty of time with makeup kits. Their dour souls have sweetened and they're years younger. If anyone were to enact a law depriving women of beautifying privileges the poor creatures would find life decidedly less zestful.

Were it not for changes in fashions—clothes figures, faces—life would not be half as stimulating.

* * *

Going on cosmetic larks or spending an afternoon in a beauty shop is a delightful diversion. Makes a woman forget how big the grocery bill was last month and that the kids have got to have their tonsils out. The business of buttering one's celestial countenance with a fragrant cream every night puts one to bed in a happier state of mind. Also brings hope that perhaps being the age you are isn't as bad as it sounds. If you can just keep on wearing size 16 frocks you'll be all right.

If life is kicking you around a bit roughly you can soothe your feelings by buying a haywire hat for a small sum of money, indulging in a new shade of lipstick.

* * *

The day of beauty bumkum is past. Beautifying is based on common sense. Charlatans have been banished from the land, the medical profession having got its fingers in their hair. Physicians have come to realize that good appearance makes for normal health and they are willing to lend an ear to complaints about skin blemishes and reducing methods. That's good.

Beneath all this flurry for decoration is the realization that there's lots more to be done. We must live wisely, see that the body is properly nourished, give fastidious attention to cleanliness and grooming, have exercise, get restful sleep.

Yes, my paper friends, we are marching.

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Downs, Bowling Green, have just returned after spending the Christmas and New Year holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Herring, Glessner avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Downs, West Fifth street.

EXCHANGE VOWS AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Miss Sarabell Kramer, John H. Van Wagner Married By Rev. David N. Roller at 7:30 O'Clock Last Night.

ON THE 27th wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Van Wagner, John H. Van Wagner took Miss Sarabell Kramer as his bride. The pretty evening ceremony was performed before the candlelighted altar of the First Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock yesterday evening. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. C. Kramer, 117 Stewart avenue, and the Van Wagner address is 120 East Main street, Shelby.

Nuptial music was furnished by two friends of the bride. Miss Eleanor Clingan presided at the organ, playing "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" by Saint-Saens, "Liebestraum" by Liszt and "Russian Romance" by Friml. Miss Jane Weuthrick sang Grieg's "Ich Liebe Dich" and "Because" by D'Hardelot. Miss Clingan played Cadman's "At Dawning" during the ceremony as well as the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's Wedding Recessional.

Rev. David N. Roller performed the ceremony before the church altar, which was decorated with palms, ferns, white snapdragons, white garza pompons and stevia in white baskets and four seven-branched candelabra. The pews for relatives were marked with white satin ribbon bows, and satin ribbons were placed over the pews of the guests.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Harold W. Kramer of Marion, wore a gown of white slipper satin and lace. This was fashioned along princess lines with a simulated redingote effect. The fitted bodice of the gown was of lace, which extended into panels in the long satin train. Satin covered buttons, a Peter Pan collar and deep lace cuffs on the wrist length sleeves were the only trim on the gown., A fingertip veil cascaded from a Juliet cap of seed pearls and orange blossoms. The bride carried a pocket testament, which belonged to her father, the late W. C. Kramer. A pure white bridal orchid with a shower of lilies-of-the-valley and adiantum were attached to the testament, which was covered with white satin for the occasion. The former Miss Kramer's only jewelry was a locket, a gift from the bridegroom. She also carried a petite point lace handkerchief, which Mrs. Van Wagner carried at her wedding 27 years ago.

Miss Olin Attends.

Miss Janet Olin served as the maid-of-honor, while Miss Alice Van Wagner, sister of the bridegroom from Dayton, and Miss Emily Burns were the bridesmaids. Their gowns of slipper satin were cut along fitted princess lines, similar to the bride's dress, with Peter Pan collars and full puffed sleeves. Miss Olin's gown was of roseberry, and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, pink and lavender sweetpeas, yellow garza pompons and heather, arranged in concentric circles. Miss Burns and Miss Van Wagner wore gowns of peacock blue, and their bouquets of Talisman roses, yellow garza pompons and heather, were arranged in the same way as Miss Olin's.

Frederick R. Allen of Harrisburg, Pa., fraternity brother of the bridegroom, served as the best man. Ushers were James Anderson and Jack Kennedy of Shelby, James Miller of Indianapolis, Ind., and Gene Zediker.

Mrs. Kramer wore a floor length gown of black crepe with an orchid shoulder corsage for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Van Wagner was attired in a floor length dress of dubonnet crepe, and she also had an orchid corsage.

Reception at Home.

A reception for the bridal party, members of the immediate families and a few close friends of the couple was held at the Kramer home after the ceremony. Mrs. Thomas J. McDermott presided at the refreshment table, which was centered with a bouquet of white pompons and stevia. Tall white tapers in silver candelholders and a green and white wedding cake also trimmed the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Wagner are now taking a two weeks' wedding trip, the destination of which was kept secret. After Jan. 15, they will make their home at 165 West Main street in Shelby. Mrs. Van Wagner wore a green suit with brown accessories and a white orchid corsage for traveling.

Mrs. Van Wagner is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and a member of Chi Sigma sorority. She has been employed as office manager of the Guarantee Title company. Mr. Van Wagner was graduated from high school in Shelby and attended the University of Pennsylvania. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and is now in charge of the cost department at the Autocall company in Shelby.

POSTPONED.

The meeting of the Bowman School Mothers' club, which had been scheduled for tomorrow, has been postponed until Jan. 10.

Gardners Feted With Reception On Anniversary

One of the attractive events of the holiday week-end was the reception and dinner given Monday by Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Gardner, Park avenue west, in celebration of their 15th wedding anniversary.

The reception hours were from 4 to 7 and dinner was served at 7:30 to 30 guests. It was served from a buffet table which was arranged with a large centerpiece of pink sweet peas, pink snapdragon and yellow single chrysanthemums, pencil tapers and candles in ivory.

Throughout the house bowls and baskets of roses, gladioli, snapdragon and single chrysanthemums were used.

The Gardners received a number of lovely gifts in crystal, the symbol of the 15th anniversary. Among the gifts was a large canape tray in clear crystal, with a border of fruit design in silver inlay. This was presented to them by the state staff of the American Legion from the office in Columbus. Mr. Gardner is state commander of the Legion this year, and a number of state officials and their wives were among the guests.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hare, Mr. and Mrs Albert Geary, Mrs. Ann McLaughlin, Miss Ruth Werner, Orin Schmitz, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Saslavsky, W. L. DeWeese, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCaw and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Deutschle, all of Columbus; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gnau of Canton.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner (she was formerly Katherine Willis), were married Jan. 1, 1925, in Mansfield, and have two sons, James and Robert.

Aggies Consider Charity Game With Trojans

IN THE RUHL BOOK

BY OSCAR RUHL,
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

"THE club that wins the close ones wins the pennant."

This ancient baseball adage didn't pay off in the National league's 1939 pennant fight but it didn't miss by much. The St. Louis Cardinals, far and away the one-run-decision champions of the senior major league, came close enough to the pennant to make the September drive true to the old league's choicest tradition—a close race thrillingly decided in the season's last week.

Ray Blades' Cards, who won more one-run victories than any rival outfit, finished a fast and furious second to the champion Reds. The Dodgers and Cubs, divided by only a half-game margin at the close of their private third-place fight, ranked second and third in the One-run league percentage tables. To that extent the compilation of one-run decisions in the National league's centennial year race held true to the time-honored baseball saw.

* * *

The close-race tradition of the National league captured a total turnstile vote in 1939 that showed an impressive margin of gain over even the bumper 1938 figures. The keenness of competition showed also in the figures on the scoreboard throughout the year.

* * *

There were six tie games, games in which darkness or rain or the Sunday closing laws made the embroiled legions draw stumps without either side gaining the decision. Of the 616 games played, no less than 180 were decided by a one-run margin. One of the tie games—Brooklyn vs Boston, on June 27—battled all the way to the end of the 23rd inning to stand as the year's prize plum in the way of hard-fought evenly-contested combats.

The old proverb about close-wins deciding the pennant took quite a kicking around, however, from two National league clubs—the Alpha and Omega, incidentally—champion Reds and tailend Phils.

The Reds won 97 games in capturing the flag, but only 21 of them were by one-run margins. The Cincy system was to win their games with something to spare The all-around class of the Reds was illustrated by the fact that their percentage of defeats by a single tally was greater than that of any rival club. About 44 per cent of all their lost games during the year saw them nosed out by the slimmest possible edge.

The Phils, on the other hand, ranked up in the first division sunshine as far as the one-run league is concerned, though they lost 106 games during the year against 45 wins. The tailenders figured in 50 one-run decisions in the course of the season and broke exactly even. Since they won 25 of their 45 victories by one-run, they finished far out in front when you line up their total victories against their one-run victories, just 5-9 of their triumphs coming by one-run margins.

* * *

The Boston Bees, with their tight pitching and strong defense, played more one-run games than any other club, a total of 52. The fact that about 35 per cent of the Stengeleers' defeats last year—more than one-third — were lost by the margin of a single run indicates how valuable just a little more power in the batting order would have been, maybe the difference between 7th place and a perch up there in the first division.

* * *

The One-run league statistics highlighted the Chicago Cubs as paragons of consistency. Their 24-20 percentage in the close games exactly [illegible] the 84-70 percentage which left them a half-game short of third place at the season's close. The margin of their one-run wins and losses was the same as in the case of their defeats. The [illegible] 9 victories they won were one-run decisions 2 out of every 9 games they suffered were by the same minimal margin.

The best way to get a line on the statistics is to take the clubs themselves and apply the same [illegible] favorite club is essayed when at its best when it's a one-run game with the winning run on the bases. The last column shows each club's [illegible] compared with percentage per cent. Here's the dope:

THE ONE-RUN LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	42	27	35	609
Brooklyn	40	23	17	535
Chicago	44	24	20	545
Philadelphia	25	25	25	500
New York	47	20	23	465
Cincinnati	46	21	25	457
Pittsburgh	49	20	24	312
Boston	52	21	31	403

What fraction of each team's victories during the 1939 season were won by one-run margins? Here's the answer figured to 3 decimals:

	Total W.	1-run W.	Pct
Philadelphia	45	25	556
Boston	63	21	.333
St Louis	92	42	.291
Chicago	81	24	.285
Pittsburgh	68	19	.279
Brooklyn	81	23	.274
New York	77	20	.259
Cincinnati	97	21	.216

How about defeats:

	Total L	1-run L	Pct
Cincinnati	57	25	.438
Boston	68	31	.544
New York	73	26	.356
Chicago	77	20	.260
Pittsburgh	95	24	.252
Brooklyn	69	17	.246
St. Louis	67	15	.246
Philadelphia	106	25	.236

Game Proposed For Finn Fund

Game, However, Is Not Likely to Materialize, Texas Officials Believe.

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Rulers of college football after a Sugar Bowl triumph over Tulane, mighty Texas A. and M. today pondered the thought of playing Southern California, Rose Bowl king, in a post-season game for the Finnish relief fund.

Over a banquet table celebration of the 14-13 defeat of Tulane's Green Wave, Coach Homer Norton, a mild man threatened only a season ago with dismissal in the middle of a disappointing year, shook off the back slaps, admitted he had heard talk of a post-season game and commented:

* * *

"What do we think of it? Well we love to play football!"

* * *

Officials of A. and M., members of the athletic council and others were sounded out and all concurred in the belief that such a game was a rather remote possibility but indicated that it would be considered.

Reports were that the game would be played in Los Angeles "about Jan 15," with an expected million dollar gate to go to Finland for relief purposes.

To Norton, however, the most important thing was a meeting with the athletic council of Texas A. and M., scheduled in a few days. Then the man who was destined for the junk heap only a few months back is expected to demand a five-year contract with certain changes in the athletic setup.

It's no secret that Norton, riding a boom year, has been approached by several major colleges, including Stanford university.

Yesterday the Aggies' great fullback, John Alec Kimbrough, 210-pound All-America performer, staged a classic running exhibition before 73,000 fans to crush a great Tulane team that couldn't hold the Haskell, Tex., hurricane.

* * *

Twice he scored and all afternoon he thundered up and down field in 60 minutes of the greatest one-man show ever staged in this part of the country. On 26 carries he crashed through for 152 yards.

Grid Gibraltar Falls Before Trojans.

PASADENA Calif. —(AP)— Football's Gibralter was in ruins today—the team that couldn't be beaten met up yesterday with the team that wouldn't be beaten.

Southern California was the toast of the Rose Bowl, Tennessee a new member of the losing team brigade and shorn of distinction dating from 1937.

* * *

The 14 to 0 score deciding the 25th Rose Bowl classic, witnessed by a jammed-in crowd of 92,000, was the most conclusive since Pittsburgh won from Washington here in 1937, 21 to 0.

* * *

Tennessee staked one of the nation's greatest gridiron reputations in the game. Defeat called a halt to a consecutive victory record of 23 Until the Southern California Trojan power machine rolled to a touchdown in the second period Tennessee's goal line had not been crossed in 15 encounters.

The best backfield man in the Tennessee string played parts of the game handicapped by a knee injury. Whether a George "Bad News" Cafego in top physicial condition would have staved off the Trojan yard-gaining landslide was a matter of debate

A prepared statement issued by Major Bob Neyland, Tennessee coach, seemed to express the sentiments of most of the experts.

It said "We were badly beaten by a superior team I want to congratulate Howard Jones and his staff for the fine team they have turned out"

Ambrose Schindler, high stepping quarterback, was the firebrand in the latest Southern California Rose Bowl victory, sixth in as many appearances.

It was Schindler who sparked the two scoring drives late in the second quarter and again toward the tail end of the fourth

The first touchdown march opened on the Tennessee 47-yard line and Schindler finally went over from the one-foot line

The last-period touchdown gave the assembled thousands a true picture of Trojan power The team passed and smashed 85 yards after recovering a Tennessee fumble. Fred Newman Volunteer's fullback had dropped the ball and U. S. C.'s sub halfback Joe Engle had snatched it into his own arms on his 15

Twice in the thrust line battering of shirting failed. Schindler turned to the air The second such sortie was a pass over the goal line to his left to Al Krueger, sub left end The Volunteers were caught flat-footed

When Tennessee's Newman fumbled it ended the only scoring bid

Clemson Outpoints Boston In Thriller.

DALLAS—(AP) Clemson's Country Gentlemen rolled back to South Carolina today with the Cotton Bowl trophy in their possession and with prospects of another All-American the next two years to replace the great Banks McFadden.

They beat Boston college's bruising Eagles 6-3 in a nerve-wracking game of long runs and sensational passes before 20,000 yesterday with McFadden forced to share the honors with a sophomore with pile driving proclivities.

Charley Timmons, who beat out a senior for a place in the starting backfield, carried the ball 27 times for a gain of 127 yards and his mighty plunges gave the Gentlemen their touchdown in the second period.

McFadden stood out, however, as the mainspring of the team with his great punting, generalship, running and defense.

* * *

It was the last Cotton Bowl game to be promoted individually by J. Curtis Sanford, young Dallas oil man who started the classic in 1936 and carried it through alone. A group of Dallas business men and civic leaders are seeking an agreement with southwest conference schools to place their champion in the game each year.

Missouri No Match for Georgia Tech.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Coach Bill Alexander ranked his 1940 Orange Bowl victors today with the great teams in Georgia Tech football history after watching the Engineers bewilder Missouri, 21 to 7.

"This Tech team hasn't as much power as our 1928 Rose Bowl squad, but it can do more things with the ball," the grizzled coach grinned.

That famous Rose Bowl team beat California 8-7 in a game never to be forgotten because of Roy Riegels' wrong-way run.

Missouri, really, never had a chance after the Tech magicians warmed up yesterday.

A crowd of 36,500 saw the Engineers, far from discouraged by an early Missouri touchdown fashioned by Paul Christman's passing arm, sweep straight back after the kickoff to tie the score and then add two more touchdowns on lightning plays.

* * *

Alexander praised Christman as a passer of All-American caliber but, as a matter of fact, his own 147-pound Johnny Bosch actually was more effective than the heralded big blond. Christman completed seven of 22 passes for 69 yards, Bosch clicking with five of ten for 57 yards.

West Gridmen Win In Sea of Mud.

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—A 28 to 11 West victory over the East went into the books today, and the boys who played in the 15th annual Shrine charity football contest still were digging the mud out of their ears

A downpour, starting midway in the second period, turned the Kezar stadium gridiron into a morass, and by the final quarter the New Year's day crowd of 45,000 couldn't tell one player from another.

But despite the adverse conditions, the ninth Western victory in the 15th-year history of the classic was an amazing display of brilliant kicking and passing.

* * *

The West scored its fourth touchdown in the final period when Lee Artoe, California tackle, grabbed a bad Eastern pass from center which sailed over the head of Dick Cassiano, Pittsburgh half, and plopped into the end zone.

Battle to Tie In Sun Bowl.

EL PASO, Tex. —(AP)— Arizona State of Tempe and Catholic university battled to a scoreless tie before 12,000 southwest partisans in the annual Sun Bowl football game here yesterday.

Two teams with a season's record of nearly 500 points between them found each others' defenses too strong

Tempe, champion of the border conference, held an edge in statistics 11 first downs to 4 and 205 yards from scrimmage to 182

Mephisto Obtains Revenge

Tosses Gil Knutsen Into Metal Seats, Loser Injured; Fans Enjoy Semi-Final.

THE Mystery Man of the wrestling fraternity and former light heavyweight champion, The Great Mephisto,. climbed another rung in the ladder of his comeback campaign last night when he disposed of Gil Knutsen in the headline attraction of Tim Nolan's weekly Quality club show at the Armory.

Near-zero weather held the attendance down but those who braved the frozen blasts were amply rewarded for The Great One was in his best form last night as he avenged the Mt. Vernon defeat.

* * *

Although he lost the first fall to the blond Canadian, Mephisto quickly disposed of Knutsen for keeps in the second setto when he gracefully tossed Gil over the ropes into the unoccupied metal chairs at the ringside. Knutsen was carried to his dressing room and by virtue of his inability to enter the ring for the deciding fall, Mephisto was automatically declared the winner.

Knutsen unleashed a vicious attack on the Mephisto at the opening bell and for 25 minutes gave the Great One a series of grips that finally terminated the fall with three body slams and smother.

* * *

Two substitutes provided the comedy of the evening in the semi-final bout. Frank Wolff, a veteran Australian campaigner, had the customers howling the entire 28 minutes of the affair.

Wolff, a master showman and superb clown, also knows plenty of grappling grips for he disposed of "Indian" Ike Gazell of Texas in successive falls. The first required 18 minutes and was won with the crab hold, and the second in 10 minutes with a double leglock

Frank Grissen, 180, of Lucas, and Henry Morgenstein, 189, of Mansfield, "tumbled" to a 15-minute draw in the curtain raiser.

Pace Stops Champ In Milwaukee Bout

MILWAUKEE, Wis. —(AP)— Georgie Pace headed back toward Cleveland today to renew battle for a bantamweight title fight on terms to his liking after a brief intermission here in which he conquered Canadian Champion Johnny Gaudes in ten dull rounds.

Both fighters displayed safety-first tactics but Gaudes' unwilling ness to mix drew a $50 fine and 30-day suspension from the Wisconsin Athletic commission Pace, titleholder by virtue of a national boxing association ruling, weighed in at 121½ Gaudes tipped the scales at 119¾.

GREAT KAYAK II BEATEN IN $10,000 HANDICAP

ARCADIA, Calif.—(UP) Whichee was installed as a threat of the season at Santa Anita park today by virtue of a surprise victory over the great Kayak II yesterday in the $10,000 New Year handicap

As expected Major A. C. Taylor's veteran sprinter burned up the track in the early part of the mile

The surprise came as Whichee showed enough to pull away when the great Argentine made a bid in the stretch.

They Raise 'Em Rugged On West Coast In Order That They Will Be Able to Withstand 'Quakes

By HENRY M'LEMORE

PASADENA, Calif.—(U.P.)—If I were a strictly honest man, and I didn't have Morris plan agents scouting me at every turn, I wouldn't even take the time to write a column today

I would be hurrying from home to home in this vicinity paying off my debts, because it is no secret that Tennessee's defeat knocked down by pocketbook for a count of ten and then jumped on it to be sure it was flattened for sure

* * *

I went for the Volunteers like a pointer goes for a quail. I thought they were invincible, and maybe I was right since they played Citadel, Mercer, Mohler Barber college, and International Correspondence and the like. But men, what a difference there is between such teams as the ones mentioned in the sentence above and Southern California.

* * *

They raise them rugged out here. Perhaps nature sees that they do in order that they will be able to withstand earthquakes, unusual weather, and the taste of the water that comes out of the taps in this section. But whatever the reason, any man that reports to Howard Jones at Southern California, and says he is a football player, had better stand six feet one in his arch supporters, scale 212, naked, and be able to run the 100 in five seconds flat

Tennessee started to the Rose Bowl with what appeared to be an all right squad. The line averaged 190 pounds in heft, and the backfield not a great deal less. To the human eye it looked like a group of men who could take care of itself.

But how quickly they learned this was all wrong. Out of the players' tunnel came USC. Muscles strained at the seams of jerseys, chests fought to force past the wool and numbers that bound them. Legs and ankles and thighs chafed at the canvas that bound them tight. They were dinosaurs on the loose, giants who ached to throw their strength against the enemy.

For a while Tennessee managed to hold the Trojans in check. But it was obvious from the start that it was only a matter of time until the flood broke. The thumb can plug the dyke only so long, and the reed withstand the gale only for a while.

One minute Tennessee was holding, fighting back the enemy. The next Southern Californians were running all over the place. A back who couldn't make five yards was given a demerit, and a lineman who didn't open a hole wide enough for the Dionne quints to walk through, arm in arm, was spoken sharply to and told to do better or be sent to the second table.

There was a lesson to be learned from the Rose Bowl game of yesterday—a fine lesson. And this is it.

* * *

There is no sense in betting on a team that buys its clothes in the boys department to beat a team that has to shave twice a day and it fitted for suits in the adult or grownups section; also one is reminded to remember that Pickett led a grand charge but couldn't make it when the opposition started throwing its weight around. P. S. The collecting line will form on the right. Don't shove boys. It's all counterfeit.

Passes Up Pro Offers

Jock Sutherland Slated to Take Over Grid Duties at West Virginia.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—Dr John Bain Sutherland, otherwise known as Jock, will coach football at the University of West Virginia next season and for as long thereafter as he cares to remain we are privileged to report today, upon advices that the deal is about to be closed. In accepting this offer he is passing up a $15 000 a year contract with the professional Pittsburgh Pirates because he wants to remain collegiate and a "very good" offer from a prominent eastern school because the latter wants to remain collegiate.

* * *

By way of explanation, Sutherland could have moved into one of the ivy-festooned eastern joints right from the time that he was fired at Pittsburgh, but for the fact that a national magazine carried an expose of Pittsburgh methods, linking Dr. Sutherland up as a collaborater in what transpired there.

* * *

This shooed off the eastern school, which knew about Dr. Sutherland's character-building on a broad scale but didn't like to see it in print. So he hasn't coached since he was fired from Pitt and has let the Pittsburgh Pirates' offer dangle in the meantime while seeking out the right spot—and West Virginia is it.

Dr. Sutherland is one of the great coaches in football history. Perhaps he is one of the greatest, and if it is a football team they want down at West Virginia they are about to get it, if they will cooperate—as they are committed to do. All they have to do is give him the material.

At Pittsburgh Dr. Sutherland had his choice of players until the code Bowman—named for its parent, Chancellor John G. Bowman—was instituted bringing a wholesale cut in the football players' salaries and, more or less simultaneously, Dr. Sutherland was tossed out on his ear.

* * *

As a result of the cleanup, Pittsburgh lost four games during the past season and probably will lose at least that many in 1940 and each year thereafter until finally the blight of character-building is terminated. It just happens that for the time being they want to build character. All schools go through this at one time or another.

* * *

Anyhow, Pittsburgh's loss is West Virginia's gain, looking at the thing from strictly a football winning standpoint and assuming that West Virginia will give Dr. Sutherland some cooperation. Briefly, they have got to dig up the best players that money will buy and he will take care of the rest up to and including getting his team into one of the post-season bowl games. And that will take care of his salary and leave enough for a couple of big, fast, hard-charging tackles.

Court Upholds NLRB Power, Ruling A. F. of L. Defeat

GIVES DECISION ON RIGHTS OF COURT REVIEW

High Tribunal Sustains Board in Certifications of Union Bargaining Agencies.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON— The supreme court upheld broad powers claimed by the national labor board today by ruling that a federal court of appeals does not have the right to pass on the board's certification of a CIO union as the Exclusive collective bargaining agency for all Pacific coast longshoremen.

This opinion, a defeat for the American Federation of Labor, sustained a decision by the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia that it could not review the board's action in lumping all west coast longshoremen into one voting unit.

The Federation had contended that the longshoremen of each individual employer should be permitted to determine their collective bargaining representative.

In two other decisions, the court also upheld the contention of the labor relations board that it had the power to direct elections to determine collective bargaining representation without interference by the Federal circuit courts.

One of the decisions sustained a board order placing the name of only one labor organization (a CIO affiliate) on a ballot for a run off election to determine collective bargaining representation for employes of the Consumers' Power company of Jackson, Mich.

Action Sustained.

The other sustained a board order directing the complete disestablishment of an independent union of employes of the Falk Corporation of Milwaukee.

Justice Black delivered the unanimous opinion holding that the seventh federal circuit court had acted erroneously in modifying the board's order.

The opinion also overruled the circuit court's action in holding that the independent union should be placed on the ballot in an election to determine collective bargaining representation of the employes.

The labor board had contended that its action in such circumstances was not subject to review by Federal Circuit courts.

Black said that authority for "anticipatory judicial control of election methods" could not be found in the section of the national labor relations act involved.

Black said that the board had "reached the conclusion that full protection of the employes' right freely to choose bargaining representatives required complete disestablishment effecting elimination of the independent (union) as a candidate."

FOUND GUILTY

Bellville Man Waits Sentence for Attack on Farmer.

Clarence Lape, 26, Bellville, was convicted in common pleas court today of a charge of assault and battery which followed an attack on a Washington township farmer, but Judge C. H. Huston deferred sentence until Lape's hunting companion, Clark Walker, 24, Bellville, is tried tomorrow.

Lape was indicted by the grand jury after he allegedly struck Bert Walker, Washington township, over the head with a gun because Walker ordered him and Clark Walker from his property.

Clark Walker was indicted for pointing a gun at Paul Miller, 15, who ordered the pair from his father's premises, adjacent to the Walker farm. Lape and Walker were hunting together.

The jury was waived in the Lape case. Atty. Charles H. Freehafer was counsel for Lape.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT FOUR TIMES

Burning Chimneys, Overheated Furnace Responsible for First Alarms of 1940.

City firemen responded to four alarms yesterday afternoon and this morning. Damage was only slight, they reported.

Companies Nos. 2 and 4 were called to the home of W. W. Hammett, 206 Orange street, at 12:30 p. m today when a furnace became over-heated.

Ten minutes later two companies were called to the home of M. J Boyden, 240 Harker street, when the chimney caught fire. There was no damage.

Yesterday afternoon and last night firemen responded to alarms at 95 South Diamond street and 506 North Mulberry street, in both cases chimneys had caught fire.

Loss in a fire which gutted a two-family residence at 72 Distl avenue Saturday night was estimated today at nearly $6,500. Frederick Schiler, 353 Shepard road, owner of the property, said damage to the building would reach $4,500, of which about half is covered by insurance.

The E. J. Davis and Robert Anderson families which occupied the residence estimated the loss of their household furnishings at nearly $2,000. Mr. and Mrs. Davis, who lived downstairs, were away at the time. Mrs. Anderson discovered the fire which is believed caused by an overheated furnace.

BREAKS RECORD

U. S. Navy Prepares to Step Up Warship Building Plans.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The navy broke its peacetime records in warship building during 1939 and is preparing to step up the rate of riveting.

Officials listed today 30 cruisers, destroyers and submarines that were completed and put in commission during the last year, compared with 16 in 1938 and 24 the year before.

With 130 major fighting ships, auxiliaries and small "mosquito fleet" motor torpedo boats and submarine chasers already under construction or ordered, the high command has asked decided increases in the building estimates prepared for congress.

Well-informed administration quarters have heard that the navy's budget as approved by President Roosevelt includes a supplemental fund of some $160,000,000.

SHOT BY DEPUTY

Former O. S. R. Inmate Injured in Dash for Freedom.

A former inmate of the Ohio State reformatory was in a Columbus hospital today suffering from a bullet wound in the neck, inflicted yesterday when he was shot by a deputy sheriff from whom he attempted to escape.

Dispatches from Columbus identified the victim as Raymond Grambo, shot when he made a break for freedom while four officers who arrested him at his home on a grand jury indictment charging auto theft were taking him to their car.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said the youth had served a term at the reformatory under the name of Robert Robson but had been transferred to the Ohio penitentiary April 13, 1938.

Pedals Hurt Pal To Hospital On Bike Handlebars

CLEVELAND — (U P) — In the time Leo Dawson, 16, had worked as a Western Union messenger boy, he was never forced to ride his bicycle as earnestly as he did last night.

On the crossbar of Leo's bike was the small, almost unconscious form of Leo's friend, 11-year-old Samuel Rutter. His windpipe punctured and his shirt-front stained with blood. Samuel, unable to talk, was being pedalled in blinding snow almost a mile from his home to Fairview Park hospital.

Samuel lapsed into unconsciousness just as Leo carried him down the steps to the accident room. Doctors, crediting Leo with saving the little boy's life, closed the deep wound with a few stitches and said Samuel would be all right if no infection developed.

The boy was stabbed with a broken pair of shears while tussling with a playmate in his home.

STROKE FATAL TO ASHBROOK

Veteran Congressman Dies at 72 on Eve of His Return to Capital.

He was confined to a Washington hospital for about six weeks.

Planned to Run Again.

But he seemed to have recovered so completely that he was considering running for his 11th term this year. In fact, he had confided to intimates that "if nothing happened," he would announce his candidacy immediately after the first of the year. He visited in Mansfield for the last time two weeks ago.

His district, which he had served for 19 years in all is comprised of Richland, Licking, Delaware, Coshocton, Knox and Ashland counties. The veteran campaigner had the stiffest political battle of his career in 1938 when he defeated Walter B. Woodward of Bellville, Republican-Townsendite candidate, after a hectic campaign.

The death of Mr. Ashbrook brought expressions of regret today from his colleagues in congress, dispatches from Washington said.

"We all deplore Congressman Ashbrook's death," said Speaker Bankhead (D, Ala) "He was in congress a great many years, and was a diligent, faithful and conscientious representative We sympathize with his family and his district."

Majority Leader Rayburn (D., Tex.) described Ashbrook as a "hard-working patriotic representative of his people."

Bankhead said he would name a delegation to represent the house at the funeral after conferring with Mrs. Ashbrook and Ohio congressmen.

In a telegram to The News-Journal today from Washington, Dow W. Harter, Akron, representative for the 13th Ohio district, expressed the regret of Ashbrook's colleagues.

"Congressman Ashbrook's death is deeply regretted by his colleagues here," Harter said. "He was a hardworking, conscientious member of congress, and his district and state have lost a worthy citizen and public servant."

Representative Crosser, dean of Ohio Democrats in the house, expressed surprise at Ashbrook's passing.

"I did not realize he was so seriously ill," said Crosser. "We had known each other intimately for 27 years and I held him in highest regard. He was a man who was genuine and conscientious in the performance of his duties."

Representative Jenkins, dean of Ohio house Republicans, said Ashbrook would be missed "in congress and by all who had the good fortune to know him."

A message of condolence was sent to Mrs Ashbrook by President and Mrs Roosevelt, Stephen Early, the president's secretary, announced at the White House today.

Wife, 5 Children Survive.

Mr. Ashbrook is survived by his wife, the former Marie Swank of Bellville, whom he married in 1920; five children, William A. Ashbrook III, Lucy Marie, Leah Abbie, John Milan and James Howard, all at home; and a sister, Mrs. Abbie Garner, of Daytona Beach, Fla. His only relatives in Mansfield are by marriage. G. G. Swank, 119 Poplar street, is a brother-in-law, and Mrs. J. H. Gongwer, Edgewood road, is a niece.

His first wife, Jennie Belle Williams Ashbrook, died Jan. 2, 1919. A nephew, Paul Ashbrook, who served as the congressman's secretary, was closely associated with him Paul left for Washington last Friday.

Last Saturday Mr. Ashbrook had taken care of his Johnstown interests as usual and Sunday afternoon had taken Mrs. Ashbrook for a ride. As they returned he complained of feeling ill. She offered to assist him out of the car but he protested that he was able to get to the house by himself. He fell, however, after he had stepped from the car. A specialist and nurse were summoned from Columbus but he failed to regain consciousness and died at 8 p. m. Monday, 27 hours later.

Mr. Ashbrook was a descendant of one of America's oldest families, his great, great, great grandfather Ashbrook having come to Philadelphia from Dunham, Eng, in 1682.

The first Ashbrooks came into Ohio from Virginia in 1821 and his grandfather purchased the present farm home near Johnstown in 1821 and this had been the home of the Ashbrooks continuously for more than a century

The congressman's father, William Ashbrook, was born on the farm in 1824. Mr. Ashbrook was born there July 1, 1867, and his oldest son was born on the farm in 1922. It was Mr. Ashbrook's often expressed wish that the farm serve as the home of his descendants for another hundred years. His own father had lived on it for 93 years and he had spent his 72 years there, except for his residence in Washington during sessions of congress.

He obtained a high school education and attended business college at Lansing, Mich. His "higher education," he claimed in his autobiography, "A Line A Day," which was published in three volumes, was gained in the school of experience and hard knocks.

Editor At 18.

Before he was 18 years old he was editor and publisher of the Johnstown Independent, and continued so until the time of his death. He had been in the banking business for more than 40 years and was president of the Johnstown bank.

He was appointed postmaster at Johnstown in his early 20's by President Grover Cleveland, but his political career began in earnest in 1905 when he was elected to the state legislature. He resigned the following year to run for congress and when he was elected, drew considerable attention by refunding part of his salary as state legislator as having been "unearned."

He served in the congress continuously from 1906 to 1920 when he went down to defeat in the Harding landslide. But even in that Republican year he was defeated by only 123 votes in the district.

He was out of congress for 14 years—his slogan later was "In 14 years and out 14 years"—when he came back in 1934. His comeback resulted when Charles West, then 17th district congressman, decided to run for the senate. Mr. Ashbrook came out of retirement and into the political picture once more. He was elected in 1934 and again in 1936 and 1938

Mr. Ashbrook was one of the "old line Democrats" and as such was openly opposed to many of the New Deal policies. He voted against such pet measures of the New Deal as the Supreme Court and Reorganization bills, and against the lifting of the arms embargo during the last session. In 1933 he voted for the soldiers bonus bill against the wishes of the president.

He was always influenced, according to his closest associates, by the wishes of his constituents and his votes were swayed by word from the "folks back home."

While in congress the first time he gained a reputation as the "soldiers' friend." He was author of the Ashbrook Widow's Pension bill, and he got through more pension legislation than any other congressman then in the house.

He won appropriations for many public buildings in his district, and the appropriation for the expanding and remodeling of the Mansfield post office, which is to be done this year, was one of his last favors for Mansfield.

In the latter part of his seventh term in congress, he sponsored an appropriation for the memorial to the World war dead at Arlington cemetery, and as a result was one of a committee of 12 men who spent eight weeks going over the battlefields of France and Belgium.

He was still a member of the United States Assay commission on which he had served for 32 years, having been appointed under seven presidents — Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Just before leaving his last session in Washington late in the fall, he had announced that he was in favor of a national referendum before this country could enter war except in case of an invasion.

He was interested in many things outside of his home and his political orbit. He was an honorary life member of the National Editorial association which he had served as secretary. As a farmer, he was identified with the state grange. For many years and up to his death, he had been a grand lodge trustee of the Knights of Pythias Children's Home and Home for the Aged at Springfield.

He was a 32nd degree Mason, and was affiliated with the Elks, the Odd Fellows, Eagles, Knights of Pythias, Eastern Star, Pythian Sisters, an honorary member of the American Legion, and was a member of the Baptist church.

The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the home, and Dr. A. A. Shaw, president of Denison university and a close friend of the family, will officiate. Burial will be in the nearby Green Hill cemetery, which was established soon after the first Ashbrook settled near Johnstown and which has been the family burial ground for more than 100 years.

GALION — A car belonging to Harvey Repp of 843 East Smith street, which had been stolen from its parking place in a downtown alley Saturday evening, was found near Repp's home, Sunday morning, police reported today.

DRY RAIDERS BUSY ON ISLE

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I.—(U.P.)—Prince Edward Island—only province in Canada still under prohibition — plans to stay dry, even though thousands of troops are in training here. Military officers approve of the dry laws.

Artillery officers and Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been conducting a series of raids through the capital, but as yet no bootleg liquor has been found. In one blind pig, however, what was described as a "considerable quantity" of military equipment, evidently traded in for liquor, was recovered.

STOCKS POINT UP IN INITIAL 1940 SESSION

Traders Generally Inclined to Optimistic Side for Business in New Year.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The direction was moderately upward in today's stock market, first session of 1940.

Edging forward were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, United Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott and Standard Oil of N. J.

Traders generally inclined to the optimistic view for business in the New Year.

Bonds and commodities were mostly higher. European markets were irregular.

• • •

Among numerous forecasts conned by market followers were those from the merchandising field where the outlook was said to point to first quarter gains in retail spending over last year of 5 to 8 per cent for the country as a whole.

• • •

With automobile assemblies in December the second best for that month in the history of the industry, motor share holders noted latest estimates that output for the year was around 3,725,000 units, or more than 41 per cent above the 1938 figure.

RED ARMY OF 16,000 TRAPPED

Finnish Troops Tighten Up on 'Squeeze,' Shoot Foes Attempting to Flee.

Finns, continuing their patrol operations, had penetrated the Russian lines at many points along the 1,000 mile front between Lake Ladoga and the Arctic sea, and that results were appearing in the Russians' inability to shift their men effectively from point to point along the front.

Rail Line Reached?

There were reports that the Finns had reached the Russian Murmansk railroad at some point as yet unidentified.

It was indicated that the Finnish general staff expected the Russians to move up important reinforcements for new battles on both the Salla and Suomussalmi front.

It was reported also that 50,000 picked Russian troops had been concentrated in the Leningrad area to reinforce the Russians attacking the Finnish Mannerheim line in the Karelian isthmus.

Reports that the Finns had recaptured Petsamo, on the Arctic ocean front, were doubted. Russian transport including tanks and armored cars were moving normally in the area, a United Press dispatch from Svanik on the Norwegian frontier said.

Reports of Nazi Shake-up Stirs Paris.

(By United Press)

PARIS—A report published by the newspaper Petit Parisien that Germany was planning a drastic political shake-up in hope of inducing the allies to make peace caused a sensation in Paris today.

The Italian correspondent of the newspaper, which is one of the principal unofficial government mouthpieces and which guarantees the authenticity of its correspondents' sources, said the German program, devised especially to allay the fears of German industrialists of Communism, included:

1. Adolf Hitler to become president of the empire, the office once held by Paul Von Hindenburg;

2. Hermann Goering to become chancellor, succeeding Hitler;

3. Nazi radicals, especially Heinrich Himmler, head of the secret police; Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbles and Dr. Robert Ley, labor front leader, to disappear from public life;

4. Foreign affairs to be turned over to a professional diplomat, probably Dr. Hans Von Mackensen, ambassador to Italy;

5. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht to resume the job of minister of economy;

6. The new government to keep silent on imperialist designs;

7. A slackening of relations with Russia;

8. A promise to recreate Poland and Czechoslovakia on a limited scale, under the arbitrage of some well-known personality;

9. Reunuci tion of the autarchic system and a return to normal world economy.

Red Bombers Leave Finn City In Ruins.

HELSINKI — (AP) — Large sections of Turku, historic port of southwestern Finland, lay in smoking ruins today, levelled by yesterday's Soviet Russian aerial attack.

Turku castle, dating from the 13th century and housing one of Finland's finest museums, still was in flames. Many objects of art were removed during the raid of more than 20 planes.

The waterfront district was reported devastated.

A government spokesman said the damage was "very great."

British Hike Armed Forces to 3,500,000.

LONDON—(AP)—A proclamation by King George VI calling about 2,000,000 more Britons to the colors gives the British a potential arm of at least 3,500,000 men.

It is expected all will be in service by the end of the year.

The proclamation, which the king signed last night after a hurried return from a holiday at Sandringham, requires that all male Britons between 19 and 27 years old register for service.

Previous conscription orders affect only men 20, 21 and 22 years old—a total of 1,500,000 men under arms or technically mobilized.

The vast expansion of mobilization does not include troops from the British colonies and dominions, which sent 3,500,000 to France themselves in 1914-18.

(It was disclosed in Ottawa yesterday that 16,000 Canadian soldiers, making up the entire first division, are in England.)

The rate at which new conscripts are to be called will depend on events. It is expected generally that action on the Western front will intensify with the coming of spring.

Neutral military observers here believe that possibly as many as 750,000 men will be called before the end of this month to strengthen the British expeditionary force—an army of about 210,000 men now.

WAITS MESSAGE BY ROOSEVELT

Congress Gets Set for Opening of Session Tomorrow; Bitter Fights Predicted.

the president will recommend big reductions in appropriations already has brought protests from sectional interests. Republicans say the president will try to "pass the buck" to congress on the question of economy.

2. Taxes. The president is expected to suggest taxes to finance extraordinary defense and farm parity costs, with congress reluctant to vote tax increases in a campaign year.

3. Reciprocal trade agreements. President to fight for extension of trade agreement power, with a Republican-Democratic coalition planning to fight for senate ratification of all trade agreements.

4. National defense. Administration expected to seek $500,000,000 increase in defense outlays. Congress, in the mood to support adequate preparedness, may nevertheless check expansion program.

5. Debt limit. Republicans to fight expansion of the $45,000,000,000 national debt limit. Administration, through economies, may seek to postpone an increase in debt limit until next year.

6. Anti-lynching legislation. House slated to pass Gavagan anti-lynching bill, with senate filibuster and split between northern and southern Democrats threatened.

7. Wagner act revision. Showdown expected on demands for revision of act, with attitude of congress still problematical. Drastic revision doubted by many members.

3. Railroads. Final passage of Wheeler-Lea railroad relief bill, designed to place rail, motor truck and waterway operations on equal basis, is expected.

President Roosevelt is expected to stand pat on the New Deal program. He has, however, indicated willingness to have congress review all experimental legislation with a view to improving it. He may, it was indicated, invite review of the Wagner labor act.

Launch Campaign to Revamp Ohio Law-Making Set-Up

2 CLEVELAND GROUPS DRAFT DRIVE PLANS

Labor Group and Citizens' League Seeking to Shift Legislative Power.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Two Cleveland organizations, which contend rural areas dominate Ohio's legislature, started the ball rolling today to shift the balance of power.

The Cleveland Federation of Labor, AFL central body here, and the Citizens League, organization of Cleveland civic leaders interested in good government, plan to carry the issue directly to the people, intending to circulate petitions to obtain a popular vote on changing Ohio's present law-making body.

The AFL group has resolved to sponsor initiation of a constitutional amendment on representation.

The Citizens' League, which will co-operate, favors the unicameral (one-house) system and has tried unsuccessfully to induce the last three legislatures to submit changes to popular vote.

"The only possible chance for getting fair representation is by popularly-initiated constitutional amendment," League Director Mayo Fesler said. "The legislatures won't change themselves."

Rural-urban conflicts on relief funds have focused attention on the issue. City leaders contend rural solons refuse to provide adequate money for poor relief.

Fesler points out that Vinton county, with 10,287 population has a representative with a voice as strong as one from Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) representing 67,000 persons.

Developed further, 64 rural counties with 1,781,282 population have 64 representatives, while 11 urban counties with 3,921,466 persons have only 38 representatives.

Favors One-House Plan.

The league favors a one-house legislature with a combined membership of senators and representatives, each having equal votes.

It proposes one senator be elected for each of Ohio's 24 congressional districts and that one representative be elected for each of the districts determined according to population.

At present the state constitution provides for 100 representatives and 35 senators. On the basis of the 1930 census of 6,666,000 state population, this means one representative for 66,000 persons. But the legislator-for-every county proviso raises the house of representatives to 135.

The other proposal—for designation of optional forms of county government—would permit the county manager plan, mayor-council system or the commission form.

This would allow large counties to unify administration of their many and complex branches, such as welfare, care of the blind, insane, indigent children and kindred services.

Hunt Killer Who Strangled Comely Philadelphia Girl

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Backtracking through the affairs of comely Mary Vila, detectives today sought a man motivated by jealousy or degeneracy or both as the strangler of the 23-year-old Argentinian.

They believed her slayer had perverted sexual tendencies; that he possessd some surgical skill, and that he possibly had been a close companion of the raven-tressed girl.

Police of nearby states were enlisted in the hunt for the person who entered Miss Vila's room before the Sunday dawn, beat and strangled her and then mutilated her body.

Detective Captain James Kelly, terming the case "the first of its kind in Philadelphia," said he and his aides were seeking a "latin with a police record" who might fit in the category of "jealous suitor."

Kelly said that judging from the condition of Miss Vila's body her killer evidently was a degenerate, but also a "skilled man, who apparently used a surgical instrument."

Labor Groups Train Guns on Perkins Again

Up and Down THE STREET

Police just can't figure this one out On the coldest night of the winter season they had to shoo two romance-bent couples off the streets. One couple was found parked in southwest part of the city. Residents complained that they had been there with the motor of their car running for nearly three hours. The other pair they found asleep in a machine in another part of Mansfield.

* * *

Probably the largest private party in this vicinity celebrating the New Year was that given Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. Jim Swisher, four miles south of Lexington, to 200 friends and neighbors. The Swisher New Year party has become something of a custom for this was the sixth one. A tremendous supper of roast pork and the traditional New Year's sauerkraut was served at midnight. Two big porkers were roasted whole and there were several big smoked hams baked. Fifty-two home baked pies, mounds of fruit cake, 17 dozen deviled eggs, a tub full of celery, gallons of mashed potatoes and baked beans were also among the menu items. Popcorn and apples by the bushel baskets, and the Levering Hillbilly band and entertainers added to the fun.

* * *

The near zero weather and snow of Sunday didn't stop a group of persons from the Paradise Hill community from holding a wiener and marshmallow roast, after they had already made reservation for the use of the Boy Scout camp. They held the roast in the large cabin at camp, but the group, comprising about 30 persons, hiked from Paradise Hill to the camp, a distance of over five miles, walked over the camp grounds, and after the roast hiked back to their homes.

* * *

The holidays were officially over today so far as Mansfield was concerned. Workmen began taking down the Christmas decorations that have made the city colorful for more than a month and Mansfielders settled down to the "daily grind" again. At the courthouse the big Christmas tree was removed from the lobby.

FLOODS ADD TO TURKS' PLIGHT

32 Villages Periled by Rising Waters as New 'Quakes' Shake Stricken Area.

(By United Press)

ISTANBUL, Turkey — Floods swept western Turkey today as new earthquakes added to destruction, suffering and death in both the west and the east.

Thirty-two villages in the Geyve valley, 100 miles southeast of Istanbul, were reported flooded and dispatches said many people had taken refuge in treetops awaiting rescue. Six hundred persons were reported missing at Kemal Pasha, a town of 50,000 people. The village of Azbali disappeared, it was said.

Twelve rivers were reported to have overflown in the Brusa and Smyrna regions, and heavy rains continued.

Twenty-five villages were reported flooded in the Adapazar valley, 60 miles southeast of Istanbul as the Sakaria and Mudurno rivers broke their banks.:

Violent earth shocks struck the Pergamos region. New shocks were registered constantly also in the eastern quake zone. The new shocks severed communication with interior points, it was reported, and there was no news from 55 villages of Erzincan province, which was hardest hit by the first quakes last Wednesday.

CINCINNATI WITHOUT A MAYOR AS BIGELOW BLOCKS ELECTION

(By United Press)

CINCINNATI — Cincinnati will be without a mayor at least until Wednesday afternoon, when the new city council meets in an effort to break a deadlock created by Herbert S. Bigelow, the council's only independent and sponsor of a state-wide old age pension plan that was defeated in 1939.

Two ballots were taken New Year day when the council met as provided by charter rules. Each time there was a 4-4 deadlock because Bigelow voted blank.

The only work accomplished was the selection of Albert D. Ash, charter-Democrat, as president pro tem, and selection of J. Carlton Brennan, Democrat, as council clerk.

Bigelow, elected to council last November, told Republican councilmen that if they wanted his vote for re-election of Mayor James G. Stewart they must pledge not to try to abolish proportional representation in the next two years.

He told charterites that if they wanted his vote for Charles P. Taft, brother of U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft, they would have to support "three things I am anxious about." He did not name these things.

George Y. Eyrich, chairman of the Republican executive committee, criticized Bigelow today, saying that "under any other form of government he would be punished by the courts for trying to sell his vote."

A. F. OF L. READY TO MAKE NEW INQUIRY DEMAND

Criticism by Both Rival Labor Bodies Expected to Result in Action.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Miss Frances Perkins, who has weathered many political storms since she assumed the job as U. S. secretary of labor when the New Deal came into power six years ago, faced new attacks today on the eve of opening of congress tomorrow.

Both the A. F. of L. and CIO were "gunning" openly for the only woman member in President Roosevelt's cabinet, but prospects that Mr. Roosevelt would move to replace her in the last year of his present term were remote.

The A. F. of L., it was learned, was preparing to push its demand that Miss Perkins be summoned before some congressional committee to explain her review of labor developments in 1939. In effect, William Green, Federation president, accused Miss Perkins of being pro-CIO in the report by failing to place responsibility for the collapse of President Roosevelt's labor peace conferences on the CIO.

Green asked that Miss Perkins be summoned before the "appropriate" congressional committee and while the Federation wields considerable influence on Capitol Hill there was no indication of any move to summon her. A move to impeach her failed at the last regular session.

The CIO was on record months ago criticizing the administration of the labor department of Miss Perkins. Several incidents have intensified the feeling of bitterness by the CIO against the labor department since then.

Some new expression by the CIO against Miss Perkins was expected when the CIO's United Mine Workers union holds its golden-jubilee convention at Columbus, O., Jan. 23. That date also may mark the beginning of new and more intensified political activity by John L. Lewis, who heads both the Mine Workers and the CIO.

GEN. JOHNSON:

Improved Prospects For U. S. Business, Peace In Europe Likely In 1940

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—There is nothing new about the New Year. If the astronomical theories are right, it is about the oldest thing in our solar system. It simply means that the earth has passed the winter solstice at the end of the track and turned into the home stretch toward summer.

Since it has been doing that from the beginning, some millions of aeons ago, there is nothing new about the New Year.

Abroad there is nothing new about this particular New Year. It is the same old seething stew of suffering, squabbling and hatred—with nobody seemingly willing to lift a finger to make it better, if that lifting involves any sacrifice to his own interests.

At home I think there is something new about this New Year. Compared with the last few anniversaries, while nothing is cured, it seems to me that almost everything is better. All the index needles on the instrument board—instead of crazily gyrating or pointing downward in the supposed general direction of hell—are pointing sharply up.

* * *

National income and farm prices rise. Unemployment falls. There is better feeling in business toward government and, as it seems at present at least, in government toward business. There is a far better realization of the futility of fighting and the necessity of team play among labor, industry, agriculture and government.

The wild bulls of Bashan, both among the industrial diehard herd and the radical young left-wingers in Washington, are heard bellowing less frequently and seem to have let experience temper somewhat their perennial wrath.

* * *

These things are all intangibles. You sense them rather than see or touch them. You can't prove them. But in traveling up and down and talking with as many people as I do, you cannot doubt them.

Yes, they are intangibles, but they are the very basis from which any sound and lasting improvement must spring and without which it cannot exist.

I think also that growing out of this very slow jelling solidarity at home there may be something that promises peace abroad. I doubt if the full significance of the president's letters to the heads of the great religious faiths have been fully appreciated.

War is usually described as having two sides—the military and the economic side. There is a third one more important than both. Napoleon said: "In war, morale is to material as three to one." By "morale" he didn't mean merely religion.

He meant that temper of both troops and civilians in warring countries. But the spiritual or religious element in that temper is frequently almost the whole of it.

* * *

There will be no more religious crusades, but when Mr. Roosevelt took his step to mobilize a spiritual element and add to it the economic and military ingredients, he was acting on the soundest principle of scientific statesmanship.

His own wife called it a gesture. I think my distinguished friend spoke without enough careful thought. If by "gesture" we mean something hardly more than words and wishes—yes. But what more was the Sermon on the Mount?

To me it seems that this is one of the most important developments at the beginning of a new year and a new decade. One of my best Jewish friends wrote me at Christmas: "I hope that the world will soon reorganize itself for kindness and tolerance. This is the current need so that all peoples can have an opportunity for freedom and conscience and happiness that is ours in America. The world needs Heil Christ rather than all other forms of salutation."

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The music goes round and round. Hollywood is on a "grind" policy. When one show's over, the next one starts. When the tom-toms pause for an instant in their beating, the trumpets are ready to blare away the silence. The music goes round and round:

Bye-bye, IT Girl. . . . Hello, Oomph Girl. . . . Bye-bye Oomph Girl . . . unless our Annie gets a chance to show what she can do to justify her fan mail.

DeMille makes a nation-wide search. . . . DeMille makes a movie. . . . And DeMille makes another nation-wide search — so that DeMille can make another movie. . . .

Leon Errol and his tricky legs—they'll kill you. . . . And then Leon Errol. . . . Errol? Didn't you know he was through? . . . The music goes round some more, and . . . 'Say, didja see that guy Errol in 'Mexican Spitfire'? Man, he'll kill you." . . .

* * *

ALICE FAYE and Warner Baxter made a movie. . . . It was called "By the Dawn's Early Light." . . . Title change: it's "The Girl from Brooklyn." . . . New title: it's "White Lady of the Orient." . . . And another (it's final up to one minue ago): it's "Barricade." . . . They're going to release "Barricade" at last. . . . And another company is starting a movie called . . . "Dawn's Early Light."

There's a new Garbo, and a new Dietrich, and a new Joan Crawford, and a new everybody. . . . Seen that new Ginger Rogers on "The Primrose Path?" With her dark-dyed hair? We gotta be new. . . . The music, too. . . . It's gotta go round and round. . . .

Have you seen this youngster, Linda Darnell? . . . Leading lady at 15! . . . "Say, this Loretta Young must be good—she's a lead at 15—or is it 14? . . . Youngest leading lady Lon Chaney ever had, they say." . . . Did'ja ever hear of anything like it, this Darnell kid, only 15 when she started playing leads? . . .

* * *

GARBO's got a romance. . . . Garbo's got a picture coming out. . . . Garbo and Mamoulian. . . . "Queen Christina." . . . Garbo and Stokowski. . . . "Conquest" . . . Garbo and the latest. . . . "Ninotchka." . . . Does Garbo say? No, Garbo never says. . . .

"There's a movie called "Remember?" . . . It gets to its mid-section and then starts all over again. . . . Is this where we came in? . . . And Kay Kyser makes a movie about why Kay Kyser didn't make a movie. . . .

Who's got the prettiest gams in town? Why you have, m'dear—until the next little starlet comes along! Who's got the prettiest mouth? Most kissable lips? Sourest puss? Wickedest eyes? Biggest ears? Cutest nose? Shapeliest back? Longest fingernails? Who's got the little toe that matches Venus's? Why you have, m'dear—until the next little starlet comes along. . . . We gotta have an angle, and the music's gotta go round and round. . . .

Glamour, that's it! . . . Lamarr and Lamour, Bryan and Oberon, Davis and Dietrich. . . . And Mary Pickford, and Theda Bara, and Nita Naldi, and Clara Bow. . . .

Beat the drums and toot the horns. . . . The music goes round and . . . a-round. . . .

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

"IS THIS the Park-Plaza?" Fabienne said, sweeping her eyes over the facade of the fashionable apartment house on East End avenue before which Bill had stopped his car. There was a uniformed doorman on his way to open the car door. Inside, in the dimly lighted foyer, she could see rich rugs and the usual appointments of an expensive private apartment house. There was no name on the awning, only the street number.

"Evening, Doctor," the doorman said, holding the door for Fabienne and Bill to get out.

They went into the lobby and got into the elevator while Bill explained, "It's a private hospital run by Dr. Chandler and his wife. They have the three top floors. It's a children's hospital Half the patients are charity cases and the other half pays through the nose. They both get the same treatment. I do most of my work here."

"Are you here very much, Bill?"

"Yes, I do all my operating here."

That, she thought with mingled concern and delight, would mean that she'd see a lot of him.

* * *

The elevator stopped at the 12th floor and they got out, stepping into a large foyer that was pleasantly home-like with glowing lamps and deep comfortable chairs arranged in groups. There was a thick rug of pleasant dark colors on the floor, neat piles of magazines on two of the small tables, standing ashtrays and colorful framed pictures on the walls. A small desk by the elevator door and the pervading smell of antiseptics were all that kept Fabienne from thinking that Bill had had a brain wave and got off at the wrong floor.

"This way," he said, leading the way to a room off the foyer. He knocked at a door and a woman's pleasant, hearty voice answered, "Come in, please!"

Isobel Chandler, who wore a nurse's uniform and the cap she had earned 30 years before, got up from her desk with a broad welcoming smile on her homely face.

"Mrs. Chandler, this is Miss Seymour, the young lady I told you about on the telephone." His eyes met the steady blue eyes that seemed to say, "You can trust me, Doctor, not to tell this young woman what we have created for her."

There was no need for the voluntary services of a worker at the Park-Plaza, but Dr. Mallory had said, "There's no obligation on your part, Mrs. Chandler, but you'd be doing a fine thing if you'd help me to create a place for this girl." He'd said many other things, of course.

Fabienne smiled and took the hand that the older woman held out to her. In the glance that accompanied her handshake, Isobel Chandler measured the girl before her and liked what she saw.

"You can run along, Dr. Mallory," she said abruptly. "I'd like to talk to Miss Seymour."

Bill said, "Thanks," and without even a backward glance or a word to Fabienne, he left.

* * *

Fabienne sat down in a chair opposite Mrs. Chandler, feeling as nervous as if she were applying for a job that stood between her and starvation.

"We've a very peculiar situation here, Miss Seymour. We're privately owned, you know, but we have a great many charity cases. However, these latter cases are not sent to us from the central organization, rather they're the ones brought here privately by our staff doctors."

Fabienne nodded.

"For that reason, we are not entitled to the services of registered social workers. Our staff has always handled all that work."

Fabienne wondered what that work was, and if this capable directress would find her inadequate.

"You'll find it very different from what you've been doing," she went on, smiling. "Dr. Mallory has told me something of your ambitious projects at Willoughby House. You'll probably find this dull. However, we'll find plenty for you to do for what ever number of hours you can spare us."

"I can give you as much time as you want, Mrs. Chandler. What . . . what could I do?"

"Well—"Isobel Chandler said, hesitantly. Bill Mallory had called her only a few hours before and she hadn't had much time to form any ideas about what Fabienne's usefulness would be. If it had been any other doctor than Mallory, she thought, she would have refused.

Suddenly her face brightened. You've worked with children?" she said.

"Oh, yes!" Fabienne answered eagerly.

"Splendid! Chiefly, our children have to be entertained Would you find it tedious to teach them little games and to read to them?"

"Not at all. I'd love it"

"And they'd like you, I'm sure," Mrs. Chandler said, rising. "Come with me. I'll introduce you to them."

"Is that all I could do?" she asked, following the white-clad figure into the elevator that took them up two stories to the children's ward.

"Perhaps we can find something else later."

* * *

Fabienne's first view of the rows of little white beds made her feel immeasurably sad. Over most of them there were cradles made of wires to support heavy casts, the weight of which bore down impossibly slim little figures. Eager, white childish faces watched their entrance with anticipation that was half curiosity and half fear.

Mrs. Chandler said cheerily, "Children, I have a pleasant surprise for you! This is Miss Seymour, who is going to be your new playmate. She's going to come to you every day and tell you stories and play games with you. Won't you like that?"

Fear was immediately banished and animation greeted Fabienne as Mrs. Chandler took her to each of the beds and introduced the children. "This is Micky," she said, "and this is Joan, who wants to show you her new doll that Dr. Mallory brought her . . . and this is Edward. Edward knows how to sing a little song in French, don't you?"

Fabienne said, "May I begin at once?"

"You may, but first I want you to meet Dr. Chandler."

"I'll be right back," Fabienne told the children, and went out with her guide.

"Where are the private patients?" she wanted to know.

"Some of those you saw are private and some charity. We make no distinction. However, at other stages of illness, some children are isolated in private rooms on the second floor. We have only three cases at the moment in the private rooms I'll take you down and show them to you. Doctor's office is on the second floor." "Doctor" was, of course, Dr. Chandler.

They went down a winding stairway to the second floor with the older woman leading the way, chattting over her shoulder. "The operating theater, private rooms, consulting rooms, and therapy chambers are on this floor. Also the receiving room. During visiting hours we use a private elevator at the rear. I'll show that to you. Only the doctors use the front elevators."

It was only a detail, but one that was to play a part in the drama ahead.

"On the first floor," Mr. Chandler continued, "we have a few rooms for parents who remain here during the crises . . . Little Sonny Parsons' mother."

SONNY PARSONS. Fabienne heard a bell ring in her memory when Mrs. Chandler spoke the name. It was still almost immediately, because Mrs. Chandler said, "This is Doctor's office."

HIGH-HATTED TED LEWIS TELLS WHY HE ASKS 'EVERYBODY HAPPY?'

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—"Is everybody happy?" Ted Lewis, the "medicine man for your blues," asks that question frequently. Today, the high-hatted music maker got around to explaining why it should be so.

"Everybody should be happy because we're over here, away from all that war trouble," he said.

"I don't think we have anything we should be unhappy about—even if we get only two meals a day. That's all I eat, myself."

Lewis, born Theodore Leopold Friedman in little Circleville, O., 47 years ago, has been on the big-time longer than any other showman he can remember. His first prominent spot came when the trio of Rose, Young and Friedman played the Hammerstein theater in New York 28 years ago on the same bill with Will Rogers.

Since then, he's twirled his cane, clarinet and moth-eaten high hat in more cities than a centipede has legs. Lewis is a merrymaker with the seven-year itch, a man who can't stay on one job more than three weeks without getting the urge to move on. "I gotta keep moving," he says.

Lewis has survived the successive musical stages of ragtime, jazz, and swing with its agitated jitterbugs and thudding rugcutters.

"What's coming in the next ten years? They'll just have another name for it, that's all."

Lewis always had stage ambitions. As a boy, he mortified his parents by leading one of the bloodhounds in an Uncle Tom's cabin parade down the main street of Circleville. One of his first jobs was playing his clarinet at E. L. Peters' Nickelodeon there. This week he held a reunion with Peters, now a Cleveland real estate broker.

Between demonstrating instruments at Henry Goldsmith's music store in Columbus, O., he made various appearances for Gus Sun, the Springfield, O., impressario, and was fired more times than he can remember. Finally he arrived.

Lewis has had his famous top hat since 1917. He put up 25 cents and rolled dice for it in front of Rector's restaurant in New York. He won, and the hat left possession of "Mississippi," a cab driver, and has been with Lewis ever since.

"I wouldn't think of buying a new one," he says. "I'll wear it until it is so battered that it lies down and dies. Then I'll bury it with this inscription, 'Killed in the performance of duty'."

Meteor Finder Brings Results To O. S. U. Prof.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The invention of a mathematics professor has brought to Ohio State university what is said to be the finest collection of meteorites in any college in the country.

The meteorites were unearthed in Texas and Arizona last summer by Prof. Lincoln LaPaz with the aid of an electrical device which he had built. The instrument is believed to be the first ever used to record the presence of magnetic and meteoric material beneath the surface of the ground.

To the geologist the few meteorites which finally reach the earth after their flaming flight through space are valuable. One weighing a pound would be considered a prize.

But with the aid of Prof. LaPaz's instrument the university has increased its collection many times over and it now contains a meteorite weighing 40 pounds.

The professor first became interested in meteorites while tracing their paths mathematically. From this he turned to their actual collection and the invention of a device which at last puts the search for meteorites on a scientific basis.

LET FREEDOM RING!

IN NO OTHER LAND does the magic word HOME mean so much as it does in America today. For our homes are not only the symbols of our liberty but our standards of achievement for all the rest of the world.

In our homes we enjoy freedom of speech and opinion. Freedom of the press and freedom of speech by radio make it possible for every man, woman and child to be informed of the affairs of the world.

There is another freedom we enjoy in our homes that is the envy of the rest of the world—freedom from drudgery, drafts and contamination. And for this freedom we can give thanks largely to the Heating and Plumbing Contractors of America.

Heating and Plumbing are the twin guardians of our family welfare. Heating safeguards our homes against cold, dampness and discomfort upon which sickness thrives. Plumbing supplies the fresh, pure water so essential to well-being and carries away waste so dangerous to good health.

Both Heating and Plumbing are too essential to the welfare of your family and to the uninterrupted enjoyment of your home to be entrusted to any but the skilled hands of a Heating and Plumbing Contractor.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1940.

Death Takes Our Congressman

HAVING in mind his visit to Mansfield only two weeks ago, his appearance of improved health and his tremendous interest in public affairs, it is hard to realize that Congressman William A. Ashbrook is dead.

As representative in congress of this Seventeenth Ohio district, Mr. Ashbrook served faithfully and well through a long term of years, and to the people of Richland county—in fact to thousands in each of the six counties of his district—he was more than their congressman—he was a personal friend.

Product of a Licking county farm, he became a weekly newspaper publisher in Johnstown at the age of 18 and his entire life centered around that small community, in which he became an important factor even before entering public service.

Serving first in the state legislature, Mr. Ashbrook was elected to congress in 1906 and continued as a member of the house until 1920, when he was defeated for re-election by a small margin in the Republican landslide of that year. Fourteen years later, after having devoted the intervening time to his newspaper, banking and other business interests in Johnstown, he was returned to congress and had been re-elected each two years thereafter.

In his service to his constituents and in his broad understanding of national and international affairs, Mr. Ashbrook performed outstanding service to his district and to his country. He was an independent thinker and a man of exceptionally keen insight and good judgment.

As an even closer linking with Richland county, Mr. Ashbrook's marriage to the former Miss Marie Swank, of Bellville, served to extend his personal interest in this part of his district and increased his visits to Mansfield and vicinity.

Among Congressman Ashbrook's last acts of service to Mansfield was his effort to secure quick action in starting work on the addition to the postoffice building, in which he was much interested.

In a letter written to The News-Journal from Johnstown last Saturday Mr. Ashbrook said: "I am returning to Washington Tuesday morning and I will do my level best to get some early and satisfactory information." With this letter was a note from his secretary in Washington showing that a check-up was being made as to the likelihood of an early start on the work.

Whatever may have been the occasional differences in views on political subjects during Congressman Ashbrook's long service, few, if any, would contend that he ever did other than follow the dictates of his conscience and judgment in reaching the decisions he was required to make.

Either as the "Pension Bill" Ashbrook of earlier days, or the more dignified Hon. William A. Ashbrook of the later period, here was a fine example of public service at its best.

No Need For Ordinance Revision

NOW that the smoke has cleared away, there seems to have been no actual justification for Councilman George C. Kyle's perturbation over the possibility of Mansfield appearing "small townish" unless council legalized the opening of night clubs from Sunday midnight until 2:30 a. m. Monday.

Nor does Chief of Police Bates appear to have been at all serious in his last week's announcement that the law would be enforced in the matter of requiring that liquor sales places in the city be closed from Saturday midnight until 6 a. m. Monday.

Whatever may have been the basis for their assurance, liquor dispensers made no secret of their intention to usher in the New Year by having their places open from Sunday midnight until 2:30 a. m., just as if there had been no law against it—and there was no indication of police effort to prevent this being done.

Lack of sufficient personnel in the police department will scarcely be argued by Chief Bates as the cause for this non-enforcement, as the services of even one patrolman, if properly instructed and authorized, would have been sufficient to inform proprietors of liquor sales places that they would not be permitted to open for the two-and-a-half hour period, and to close any that attempted to do so.

There has also been considerable discussion, in recent months, of the liquor business being permitted to "control itself"—but if deliberate violation of the law can be regarded as an example of ability at internal control it seems obvious that some external influence must still be exerted.

But, after all, law enforcement in a city is very much along lines that expressed public sentiment indicates is wanted, and, as Councilman Kyle contends, Mansfield doesn't want to seem "small townish."

Fire Prevention Requires Planning

FIRES that attain the proportions of a conflagration are so rare that they are seldom taken into account in planning a city's fire-fighting facilities. Not until the ordeal is over, and crowds flock to view the row of homes or business structures that lie in smoking ruins, is much attention paid to such a possibility.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has issued a bulletin dealing with conflagrations, and the proper advance precautions that can be taken to check their destruction. Most vital, of course, are local fire fighting facilities. This doesn't mean fire engines only—it means water supply, hydrants, mains and hose. On top of that, neighboring communities should have plans for aiding each other in case of need. Many of the great conflagrations of the past were stopped from doing even greater damage by the prompt dispatch of help from towns and cities in the same area.

Precautions of this kind are as vital for small towns as for large cities. The destruction of a village is just as ruinous to its inhabitants as the destruction of a big factory town to those who live and work there. In a number of states, progress has been made in developing rural fire fighting departments located where they may quickly answer calls from a wide area.

Last, but not least, remember that vigilance will prevent most fires, small as well as great. Care, backed by knowledge, is fire's worst enemy.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—A rumor backed most of all by a perfectly logical deduction, is that President Roosevelt ordered the navy to give up its priority, so that the Finns could get those 44 spanking new model Brewster pursuit planes.

Washington knows that the navy would not have acted independently to grant such a marked favor to a nation at war. Further, it ties in with the executive action, routed through the state department, once more discouraging American plane makers from shipping planes to countries which bomb civilian populations. That served to add Russia to the list which already—strictly unofficially—includes Germany and Japan. Germany has bombed no British or French populations, but was widely suspected of planting a few in Poland which were far wide of strictly military objectives.

So to date the U. S. contribution to further the success of Finnish arms includes:

Priority on fast naval planes (land models, of course, not seaplanes).

Virtual prohibition of similar shipments to Russia.

Granting of $10,000,000 of government credits to Finland for civilian relief (which frees Finnish money to buy war supplies).

A commitment to return $250,000 paid by Finland on her debt.

Active Red Cross and Herbert Hoover relief to Finland.

Not a dime of corresponding relief for Russia (many of whose children probably have been orphaned by sharp shooting Finns).

Garbo, the Propagandist.

AND we can add that if the Swedes never strike another blow at Russia they have already done plenty through the agency of one Greta Garbo, actress. Go see the film "Ninotchka." Garbo will tickle you more than a fistful of wiggle worms. More to the point, she simply torments the Russian revolution into a lather. And how the customers love it. Of course, before you will really enjoy the thing from the propaganda standpoint you should be let in on a secret. Garbo is Swedish.

Hull, the Stylist.

SECRETARY HULL hasn't published his official papers yet. The state department will release them officially in 1954. When they are published they will be liberally sprinkled with the word "phases" if Hull follows his press conference style.

One diligent reporter told us he once counted 17 "phases" in a single press conference. Some of the lads are considering organizing a "pool" on the thing, 25 cents a guess on how many "phases" he will use at any given conference. But they probably won't. It wouldn't be protocol. The state department is strong on protocol—and it gets the reporters, in time.

Two Ship Incidents.

THE maritime commission chuckles at the whimsies of public sentiment. A German ship is scuttled a few hundred miles off shore and we go into ecstasies of hullabaloo and head-line writing.

Yet in 1937 an American-owned tanker was torpedoed and sunk. Search as it would, the commission found only four lines concerning the sinking of the 12,069-ton tanker George W. McKnight off the Spanish coast. The brief mention was in a Wall street paper. The tanker was owned by Standard Oil of New Jersey.

ANOTHER BOUNDARY CRISIS

Listen, World!

Hate Can't Hurt You—Unless You Let It.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HATE used to disturb me terribly.

Like all lively, reckless people, I unconsciously made myself a target for it by continually disturbing my neighbor's comfortable Status Quo. As a consequence, somebody was usually gunning for me; which, after all my snooty talk, I should have taken philosophically.

But I couldn't! I could be sufficiently calm in the face of almost any other trouble, but I couldn't be calm in the face of hate. It did something to me. Something tangible. It not only messed up my mind and physically—as some vicious, slow poison would have done.

Part of the disturbance, of course, was caused by my own anger. Hate made me furiously angry. The injustice of it! If I'd tried to hurt anyone, it would have been my just due. But to hate me merely because I was what I was—to hate just because the hater liked to hate—I couldn't understand it; I couldn't bear it.

Hate got my goat. Gave me, literally, the blind staggers. How many days, months, years have I wasted—I wonder! — shadow-boxing hate. Plenty of them. And then, gradually, I began to make a tremendous discovery.

I BEGAN TO DISCOVER THAT I NEEDN'T BE HELPLESS BEFORE HATE.

I had been blaming Hate for the demoralization of my life. I had been thinking of Hate as a hideous Power. But hate wasn't a Power. Hate had no power—UNLESS I GAVE IT POWER. Hate couldn't do anything to me—UNLESS I LET IT.

What was Hate? Why was Hate? It was the gesture of an angry, frightened spirit—a spirit that wanted to strike and hurt because it was angry and frightened.

What had made it angry and frightened? Sometimes I had, by my own carelessness or selfishness. And when Hate was my fault, it was up to me to face and fix that fault.

But oftener Hate came from the other fellow's own weakness—some bitterness or envy or confusion in himself. In either case, whether I caused the Hate, or whether it was the other fellow's own stewing, Hate, itself, was only a gesture.

AND THAT GESTURE COULDN'T HURT ME UNLESS I LET IT.

It might make plenty of outside trouble for me. It might mess up my outside life. But I didn't live in my outside life, in the things I owned, or the things I did. My real life lay deep inside, in the things I thought and the things I felt. And over these things I had control.

HATE COULDN'T TOUCH THESE THINGS UNLESS I LET IT.

Hate was the product of anger and envy and fright. But Hate couldn't pass on that anger, envy and fright to me—unless I permitted it. Hate couldn't even bewilder me.

But how could I prevent it? BY UNDERSTANDING IT. IF I ONCE UNDERSTOOD WHAT LAY BEHIND HATE, IT COULD NO LONGER MAKE ME ANGRY.

If a frightened child struck me, I didn't become angry, did I? If a sick or insane woman in her delirium called me names—spread vicious stories—even menaced my life—I didn't hold her responsible, did I? I took reasonable precautions to protect myself but I didn't get rattled; I didn't let my inner life be demoralized.

No; I accepted it as I accepted the other nuisances and accidents of life—and went right on with my work and dreams.

Then why not accept Hate in the same way? Hate, too, was the frantic gesture of a sick soul. If I understood the gesture—if I understood what lay behind Hate—I would see that Hate was a weak, not a strong thing, and the sick spirit behind it was pitiful, not powerful.

AND THAT VERY PITY WOULD TAKE THE STING FROM HATE.

Hate no longer demoralizes and demolishes me as it did once. Being human, I still get hot under the collar and have my mean moments of longing for revenge.

But I've learned how silly such moments are—how dangerous to myself. I've learned that they are the only real menace in Hate. MY OWN ANGER IS THE ONLY HARM THAT HATE CAN DO ME.

So—even if I don't give two hoots for the other fellow—even if I'm moved to no motive higher than common selfishness—I try not to let Hate get under my skin. And, sometimes, I succeed!

Timely Editorial

State Trade Barriers.

The Federal Government is naturally concerned over the trade barriers which have been set up by many of the states against one another. Such interference with the flow of commerce is injurious to the country as a whole and is in violation of the spirit if not the letter of the Constitution which calls for free trade throughout the boundaries of the Union.

Punitive taxes, which amount to tariffs, and divers other restrictions intended to keep the products of one state from entering another have become so numerous in recent years as to menace the basic principles of our American system.

As one means of remedying this evil, it is now proposed to establish an interdepartmental committee at Washington to study the problem and to assist a co-operative movement among the states themselves to remove the barriers. Such a committee, without interfering with any sovereign right of the individual states, should be of much help in bringing about a more satisfactory order of things.—Atlanta Journal.

Health And Diet

Medicine's Banner Anniversary Year.

—By DR. CLENDENING

WHAT will 1940 bring forth in medical progress? Our record in the past on this anniversary is notable:

Fifty years ago—1890—a young bacteriologist named Emil Behring in the "Triangle," the old dilapidated building of Koch's laboratory in Berlin, was working on a hint given him by a Frenchman. The Frenchman's name was Roux. (Frenchmen and Germans worked together in those far-off days for humanity.) Roux had been working on diphtheria, which then took a dreadful toll of young child life. He had proved that what killed the children was not the diphtheria germ itself, but the poison it produced—the toxin.

Behring thought that where there was a poison there should be an antidote. After long labor he was able to immunize horses and prove that the blood serum of an immune horse contained the antidote or anti-toxin to neutralize the toxin of diphtheria. And one winter's night—Christmas night, indeed—he bent over the bedside of a desperately sick child, choking and almost gasping its last breaths, and injected the first dose of diphtheria anti-toxin ever given. Only 50 years ago!

A hundred years ago, the Jewish professor of anatomy at Zurich, Jacob Henle, published a book, "Miasms and Contagion," which contained the first clear statement of the germ "theory." A Frenchman, Pasteur, was to put it on a sound, experimental basis later, but Henle first outlined it.

Infantile paralysis was first described 100 years ago, and also that condition of the thyroid gland which produces protruding eyes, known as Basedow's disease. The first dental school in the United States was founded in Baltimore by Chapin Harris in 1840. The first hospital for tuberculosis in England opened its doors that year. What a long road we have come in scientific dentistry and tuberculosis treatment since then!

University Founded.

Two hundred years ago the University of Pennsylvania was founded. It was called the "College of Philadelphia." It was to give long and honorible service to its country.

There was a war going on in 1740—the "War of the Austrian Succession." How ironically that name rings in our ears today. And, as is usual in war years, there were pestilence and famine. There was a widespread epidemic of typhus fever—almost unknown now—the fever spread by lice. Smallpox was raging in England and Scotland and throughout the American colonies. Nobody knew how to prevent it.

"Physician's Watch."

Two hundred and fifty years ago Dr. John Floyer invented the "physician's pulse watch." He was able to count the pulse in sickness and health, and made diagnostic deductions from the data. The watches begun to be manufactured and got into circulation. They had second hands on them. Your second hand was put on your watch by a physician for the benefit of physicians. How many times do you use it? Probably never, unless you are a physician, nurse or chemist.

Four hundred years ago, 1540, Valerius Codis discovered sulphuric ether. The world was to wait 300 years before it was discovered that it would put a person to sleep and keep him free from pain throughout a surgical operation.

And 500 years ago printing was discovered, the most glorious anniversary in our roster of 1940.

With both sides carrying on a hard fight, the Battle of Murphreesboro was fought on Jan. 2, 1863. The Union forces of 44,000 men were lined up against a Confederate force of 45,000. Each side lost about 9,500 men.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—For the first time in two years word has gone out very quietly from the White House that the president has a man definitely in mind as his possible successor.

That man is Cordell Hull.

This does not mean that the president is committing himself. He is being careful not to get out on a limb. However, this is definitely the very first time he has even mentioned the name of a specific candidate. One year ago, in fact, Roosevelt told friends that he considered Secretary Hull too old (he is 68).

Therefore the consideration he is now giving Hull is more than significant.

What the president is doing is throwing out Hull's name to various close advisers and noting their reaction. He has also made some inquiries into Hull's background in congress and finds that it was good.

The tack which the president is taking is that Hull is the only man who could get the support of both the liberal Democrats and the conservatives, such as Senators Glass, Byrd, and George.

No other candidate, according to Roosevelt's present frame of mind, will be able to swing both the conservative Democrats and the liberal New Dealers.

Whether he continues to hold this opinion remains to be seen. Some of Roosevelt's advisers have told him that the trade treaties would be a tremendous handicap to Hull in the midwest, and that his age also will be a factor.

Also significant is the fact that the Inner Circle, while not yet counting Roosevelt out for third term, are by no means so sure of it as they once were. Now they are convinced that Roosevelt really does not want to be a candidate.

Note—If Hull (of Tennessee) should head the ticket, a New York candidate for vice president would be a natural, in which case Jim Farley has his eye definitely on the job, and it would be tough for the president to refuse him. Inner reports, however, are that Roosevelt would prefer Bob Jackson.

Justice Frankfurter.

LIKE other members of the Supreme Court, Justice Felix Frankfurter has an imposing private office furnished with the elegance and comfort befitting an official of august rank. It has a private shower, large marble fireplace, massive furniture upholstered in rich leather, deep rugs and a desk that is a wide expanse of polished mahogany.

But unlike his colleagues, Frankfurter does not use his ornate sanctum. It's too fancy for him.

One day he said to Edward F. Pritchard, jr., his brilliant Harvard law clerk, "Ed, how about swapping offices with me? You take mine and I'll take yours."

"It's okay with me," grinned Pritchard, "but why?"

"Mine is so ornamental it gives me the creeps. It's spooky. Further, it's so elaborate that there isn't enough place for all my books."

So Pritchard is now ensconced in his boss' flossy office and the Justice, with his books, is quartered in the modest, cozy office of his law clerk—minus shower and fireplace.

Note—Justice Frankfurter, whose flair for scintillating epigrams recalls the colorful phrases of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, has another habit in common with his predecessor. Like Holmes, Frankfurter likes to stand while reading, and has a lectern in his office for that purpose.

Jackson Day Dinner.

GENIAL Big Jim Farley is predicting a sell-out at the $100-a-plate Jackson Day dinner in Washington next week.

"It can't miss," he explains with a broad smile, "and this is why: All the candidates will be there in order to be mentioned as among those present, also to be on hand in case the president says a certain something they are mighty interested in.

"And all the other boys will come in order to see what the candidates do if he says that something. Yes, sir, this is one dinner that will play to a capacity house."

Note—Jim personally is convinced that Roosevelt will say nothing about his political plans in his speech.

* * *

FDR and Garner.

THERE is one reunion on the day congress opens which gossip-loving Washington would give its shirt to witness. It is the meeting between Roosevelt and Garner.

Since they parted just two months ago, the vice president has tossed his hat in the ring as definite candidate for the White House regardless of what the president may do. Also, in the meantime, Roosevelt has told intimates that No. 1 on his list of unacceptable nominees is Garner.

This puts the two chiefs at squarely opposite poles.

This is nothing new. The two men have been in contending camps on a number of occasions in the last two years. But these differences have been on issues. This is the first time since the pre-convention battle of 1932 when they have crossed swords on personal ambitions.

Yet, insiders who know both men well are offering bets that they will greet one another like long lost brothers.

Real fact is that despite all their differences of view-point, both men are genuinely fond of each other and they never have had a personal row. Garner has aired his opinions bluntly and forcefully, and Roosevelt has done the same. But they have never really quarreled.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

ONE move in the minds of the Jack Garnerites is that in the last showdown he might withdraw to let Sam Rayburn step into the picture. . . . Memorable date in the history of American journalism was 60 years ago today, when the New Orleans States was founded to battle the notorious Louisiana lottery. Since then the States has fought editorially and valiantly against the Huey Long regime and played a leading role in exposing last summer's scandals. . . . Herbert Hoover is getting a bit of ribbing on his war memorial library, whose 17 stories tower in needle-like grandeur above the Leland Stanford campus. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of the university, and Hoover's secretary of the interior, always has insisted that Boulder Dam should be called "Hoover Dam" despite its official name. So now Stanford students are calling the 17-story Hoover Library, "Boulder" Library.

Never Twice Alike

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I GO frequently to town, on business or otherwise, over the same old road.

"Don't you get tired going the same way every time?" a friend suggested. "If I had to drive over it as often as you do, it'd sure get monotonous." He smiled, thinking what he said was true, and there could be no argument.

But to me that old highway is never quite the same no matter how often I travel it. During these winter mornings the sunrise always greets me, as a miracle. The woodlands always have a different color, sometimes blue, sometimes gray and indistinct, sometimes so clear in showing tree personalities that their outlines and tracery of branches is a study. The curves are always graceful, bearing me smoothly on but around each curve, each day, the scenery is different.

When I go on winter evenings I never find the playful, bewildered rabbit shrugging his shoulders or cocking his little cotton tail at the same angle as I have seen a bunny do before. The roaming 'possum, seen by clear moonlight, is a different 'possum. His movement shows an individuality of his own. The moping owl that calls from the deep dark woodland expresses a more somber, more plaintive mood at times. I often see the gleaming eyes of wildfolk, like live coals, along the nighttime road, as they eye me, passing by, with terror and misgivings.

At this season, the winter wind makes melodies through the dead grass and leafless trees. On every trip the music has a different pitch or tempo, or gives a weirder message. It blows across the hills changing constantly, like a mighty organ beneath a giant hand.

Then sometimes the rain freezes on the smooth road and cars slip and slide, upon the hills. When I am alone, I find this a pleasing fear, and take my chances upon the glassy surface, feeling the wheels moving rapidly, with very tardy progress of the car. And when I do reach home and the family comes to anxiously reassure themselves that it is I and that I am safely home, it is another thrill to relate the horrors of the trip to their wide, wondering eyes, and tell how many other cars and trucks I left stranded below the hill, or helpless in the roadside ditch.

The old road I travel so frequently is always new and interesting to me.
